Vol. 3—No. 66 [THREE SECTIONS] GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1923 [20 PAGES] THREE CENTS

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

What the P. E. Wants in Glendale and What Glendale Wants of P. E.

WE understand that a petition is being circulated in Glendale today by the Pacific Electric company.

This petition is addressed to the Glendale city council and petitions them to grant a permit to the Pacific Electric company to operate busses in Glendale.

We do not know what success the Pacific Electric company is having in getting signers to this petition, but we do know a great many sign petitions without giving the matter much thought.

To those citizens who have not yet signed this petition we would suggest that they hesitate before signing. We understand that two lines are proposed by them at this time—one to run on Kenneth road and the other on Verdugo road.

* * *

WE recognize that the Pacific Electric company has a large investment in Glendale and we think that bus lines owned by a competing line will, in a measure, react against this investment.

We would like to know what the Pacific Electric Railway company has done for Glendale which would justify us in granting it this permit?

We feel that our high car fare is discriminatory and not justified, and we would not recommend the granting of any more franchises to the Pacific Electric Railway company until it reduces our rate, so as to be in line with that of other like communities.

Why should our rate be any higher than Hollywood's, when the distance is practically the same?

* * *

GLENDALE must and will have lower fares—whether through a reduction made by the Pacific Electric or otherwise, we do not know, but we are quite sure that the time is not far away when the demands of Glendale citizens will be granted.

The Glendale line is reputed to be the best paying branch line of the Pacific Electric system and can continue to be—not by a continuance of a high car fare and bus lines owned by competing companies covering the entire feeding territory with their busses, but better by an increase in volume of business made possible by a reduction in fare.

* * *

WHEN this petition is presented to our city council we would suggest that it tell the Pacific Electric in plain language that a bus permit will be issued to them if it in turn will quit discriminating against our city and reduce our fare to an equitable basis.

All we of Glendale want is lower fares and if the Pacific Electric will grant them we would prefer that the busses be operated by it.

BOULEVARD BOARD OF TRADE TO MEET HERE

Bridge Across the River to Be One of the Subjects Discussed

Mrs. Holman, assistant secretary of the Santa Monica Boulevard Board of Trade, announces that a meeting of that board will be held at the Glendale Chamber of Commerce next Monday evening at 7:30.

She states that among the matters to be dealt with at that time will be the bridge across the river at Glendale Boulevard and the viaduct connecting Hyperion avenue to Glendale boulevard, as proposed in the plan of the Los Angeles City Traffic Commission.

"This new front door to the city of Glendale," she declares, "will be of the utmost value in giving access to your city, being only a little over one mile from the junction of Santa Monica and Sunset boulevards When completed the new boulevard will give Glendale the most direct route and the best possible grade to Los Angeles and the beaches, and will surely accelerate the already rapid growth of your city. Detailed information and maps will be available for all who are interested."

BOOTLEG MURDER

PASADENA, March 17.—While fighting to retain possession of a revolver with which he was threatening to kill his girl wife, Homer Perkins, 40, was killed late last night when the weapon was discharged and the bullet crashed through his chest, according to police reports.

Bootleg liquor is said by the police to have been responsible for the trouble. Joseph Irving, a neighbor, attempted to disarm Perkins in his attempt to kill his wife, and in the struggle for possession of the weapon it was discharged twice. One bullet went wild, the other killing Perkins.

COMMUNITY SERVICE DIRECTORS PLAN ITS WORK IN GLENDALE

Tentative List of Activities Is Laid for the Coming Months of the Year to Cover All the Recreation Forms

PROVIDE WHOLESOME FUN FOR EVERYONE

Spirit of Friendliness and Co-operation Is Sought Through Get-together Assemblies of All Citizens in the City

A meeting of the board of directors of Glendale Community Service was held at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at Glendale union high school, with V. M. Hollister presiding, to determine on the program of activities to be carried out under Glendale Community Service.

A tentative list of some of the activities which will be worked out during the year as a Glendale Community Service program is given below. One of the chief objectives of the executive committee is to inaugurate such activities as will provide a wholesome outlet along recreational lines for the whole community, keeping in mind the program of existing organizations and institutions. Through the medium of the program worked out thus far it is the desire of the executive committee not only to promote recreation for itself, but through recreation to build up a spirit of friendliness and co-operation that will go toward uniting the citizens of Glendale in other projects.

COMMUNITY MUSIC
Committee Chairman, A. L. Baird

Regular community sings at the high school auditorium; Easter sunrise service, formation of community chorus, formation of community orchestra, music memory contest, music week, Christmas carol program, formation of boys' band, if there is need.

ATHLETICS—Men and Boys
(Committee to be appointed)

Organization of twilight baseball league among organizations, conducting of tennis touraments, athletic carnival, installing lights on high school grounds, seasonal sports, swimming contests, formation of boys' league during summer.

ATHLETICS—Women and Girls
(Committee to be appointed)

Seasonal sports, tennis, swimming contests, gymnasium classes in co-operation with the high school, activities as the committee may decide.

DRAMATICS
(Committee to be appointed

Secure co-operation of existing dramatic groups, encourage formation of other player groups for the production of one-act plays; production of a pageant this spring.

PLAYGROUNDS AND PARKS
(Committee to be appointed)

Conduct a regular playground program in as many centers as seems advisable in co-operation with the city schools and high school. Arrange contests between centers. Special events throughout the summer to interest children. Features at parks, conventions, etc.

SOCIAL RECREATION
(Committee to be appointed)

Young people to be interested; special recreation evenings; programs suited to desires of young people.

SPECIAL FEATURES

Home play week early in May. Appoint special committee. Emphasize the value of each home having a playground in the backyard. Make intensive campaign, districting city and setting up model playground. This event is especially for small children. Enlist P. T. A. organizations. Kite day early in May. The chief value in this event is to get the boys themselves using spare time in making kites Have a contest and give a prize to best flying kite.

NEIGHBORHOOD ACTIVITIES

Conduct "block parties" at various locations throughout the city, enlist interest in P. T. A. Use recreation leaders for games.

Committees will be appointed in the near future to work out this program. Anyone interested in twilight baseball is asked to communicate with R. E. Tucker, Glendale Community Service executive who can be reached at Glen. 3070.

BIG CHORUS TO MARK EASTER SERVICES

At Least 100 Voices to Be Heard at Sunrise on Tropico Hill

Glendale's Community Service Easter sunrise services, which will be held on Easter morn at the top of the hill known as Observation point, overlooking Forest Lawn Memorial park, Glendale, Eagle Rock and the San Fernando valley, is to equal, if not exceed, the big Christmas celebration, which was attended by about 8000 people, it is anticipated.

It is hoped that there will be a chorus of over 100 voices from the various choirs, young people's societies and others interested. A rehearsal for this chorus is to be held Wednesday night at 7:45 o'clock at the high school auditorium. Professor J. B. Poulin, director of the Ellis and Lyric clubs of Los Angeles, will be here as director.

The Forest Lawn Memorial Park association has a corps of men busy with tractors leveling off a large plateau of over a half acre, near the top of the hill, and also getting the roads in shape for automobiles. Brush is being cleared away from the side of the hill to make additional room. It is stated that 10,000 people can be accommodated. Plans are completed for a large electrically lighted revolving cross to be installed at the top of the hill. Midway between this and the large plateau there will be erected a speakers' stand.

Travelers on foot may reach the place for the sunrise services by taking the trail which begins just back of the Little Church of the Flowers. Frederick Warde has been secured as one of the features of the program. There will be singing by Constance Balfour and other interesting numbers. The view from the top of the hill is very wonderful, Towards the west can be seen the ocean, towards the south Silver lake and rolling hills and mountains to the east and north, and one gains a more definite idea of the territory covered by the city of Glendale.

American Declines European Debt Idea

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The American reply to the Allied suggestions for repayment of the $250,000,000 spent by the United States in maintaining its troops on the Rhine was forwarded today to Paris. It was understood to decline the suggestion that the value of seized German ships be deducted from the troop bill, but not to constitute a flat rejection of the Allied plans.

THE WEATHER

All California: Tonight and Sunday, fair; light northerly winds.

GLENDALE TEAM TO MEET PICO OUTFIT SUNDAY

Sunday, March 18, the Glendale team meets the Pico Stars in the hardest game of their schedule so far this season, at the grounds at Park and San Fernando Road. Harris is to do the twirling for the locals, with a very good lineup behind him.

The game starts at 2:30. The Glendale team will stage a big dance on Friday evening, April 6, in order that they may get the proper outfit for a good, first-class team, and with the public to help out in this to make Glendale a baseball city.

BLAM! SAYS BOMB AT DUBLIN BOUT OF SIKI—TIGUE

[By Associated Press]

DUBLIN, Mar. 17.—"Battling" Siki and Mike McTigue entered the ring in the Scala theatre at 8 o'clock tonight for their fight for the light heavyweight championship of the world.

A land mine was exploded in Moor Lane, within a stone's throw of the Scala theatre at the moment the Siki-McTigue fight was due to begin tonight. Two children were wounded. All the windows and doors in the neighborhood were blown out.

McTigue, who appeared in the ring first, got a hearty reception. Siki followed almost immediately and was given a great welcome.

Up to the 14th, the fight was very dull with neither man suffering much punishment. Both men were cool and indulged in much sidestepping. In the 9th round Siki fought McTigue to the ropes and was warned for using the kidney punch. McTigue bled in the 10th from a cut on the eyebrow.

The 15th, like most of the others, was without features. In the 16th and 17th McTigue worked desperately to get in a knockout punch. Siki, however, was never in danger. McTigue won on points in the 20th round.

LEGIONNAIRES HOLD ROUSING MEETING

Get Together From Entire District to Meet the Commander

Legionnaires of the Glendale post and delegates from Inglewood, Eagle Rock, Van Nuys, Burbank and vicinity, enjoyed a rousing good time at the get-together meeting Friday night at the Legion hall, 610 East Broadway, with Commander Day presiding. Seth Millington, state commander, who was to have been present last night was called north on urgent business and hence was unable to attend.

An impromptu program of speeches, music, etc., furnished entertainment for the more than 100 members who were present. Bob Hanley, past commander of Post No. 8 of Los Angeles, Miss A. C. Cardozo of Santa Barbara post No. 9, who is third vice-commander of the state department; James Collins of Long Beach, member of the state executive committee of the Ninth congressional district; D. M. Claflin, first vice-commander of Victory post of Los Angeles and second vice-commander of the county council; Dr. Yale, commander of Burbank, gave talks on the on the work of the Legion, its influence on the community, fundamental principles and also "Americanization."

Three new members were initiated into Glendale post last night, H. B. Lockwood, Steve Haviland and Mr. Collins. The musical program consisted of impromptu quartet singing from the various posts represented. A feature of the meetings of the Glendale post is the attendance prize given every Friday night. Last night the treat was provided by Albert E. Cawood, who presented tickets to the Glendale theater, and also by Roberts & Echols, who provided a large box of chocolates. Mr. Claflin of Victory post, Los Angeles, received the prize.

The American Legion ball team will turn out for practice on the ball grounds at Wilson avenue and San Fernando road on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All Legionnaires who can attend are requested to be present for practice.

BOY SCOUTS TO HIKE TO MT. GLEASON

Only Those Who Are in Good Standing to Make Trip

TO START MARCH 26

Will Leave by Auto From Brand and Broadway at 7 o'Clock

The Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills district are going to take a pioneer hike to the summit of Mount Gleason during Easter vacation, according to plans just completed by the camping committee of which Frank C. Ayars is chairman.

Four days will be spent on this adventurous hike to the historic Indian lookout which was used in the early days of California to spot immigrant teams.

The scouts will leave by automobile from the corner of Brand and Broadway at 7 o'clock Monday morning, March 26. The automobiles will convey them to the mouth of the Big Tujunga canyon. From there they will hike to the top of Mount Gleason over the excellent government trail via Trail canyon. As Mount Gleason is only nine miles from the mouth of the Big Tujunga it is expected that the scouts will reach the summit easily the first day. One day will be spent on this gorgeous mountain, then they will slip camp and wend their way down the beautiful North Fork of Mill Creek canyon. This will take another day. The last day they plan to hike down the Big Tujunga where they will be met by automobiles which will carry them rapidly home.

Only scouts in good standing in their troop will be permitted to take this hike and then only by making proper application, which must be approved by their parents and the scoutmaster. The limit is set at 50 boys with the exception that where the scoutmaster is going along he may take his entire troop with him.

Each troop will arrange its own transportation, according to the above schedule. There will be no charge for this trip. Each scout will take and pack his own food and blankets and cook his own food.

The hike will be in charge of Scout Executive Harold Benner. Associated with him will be several scout leaders.

TWO STORY BLOCK COMING ON SO. GLENDALE

Stakes Set for $15,000 Structure at 609-11, Starting Monday

Stakes were set Friday afternoon for a two-story business block to cost $15,000 at 609-11 South Glendale avenue. Actual work on this structure, it is understood, will start Monday morning and the building will be completed within 90 days. George E. Caldwell of Los Angeles is puting up the business block.

The size of the building will be 50x70 feet and it will be entirely of brick. On the main floor there will be two storerooms, while the second floor will be taken up by three offices and one apartment. One of the storerooms is already rented.

The arrangements for this building were made through R. A. Blackburn of the T. W. Watson office, 708 East Broadway, which firm has charge of the leasing of this block.

MOTORCYCLE CONTEST

The national championship motorcycle hill climb will be held at Zelzah Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The event will be held under the auspices of the Los Angeles Motorcycle club and under the sanction of the M. and A. T. A. The incline on which the climb will be held runs as high as 78 per cent grade. There will be eight events.

Zelzah is 29 miles from Los Angeles.

NAVAL BASE ORDERED

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Formal orders establishing the "naval operating base" at San Francisco have been sent to Rear Admiral Halstead, commanding the 12th naval district. When the base has been set up, Admiral Halstead was instructed that the present naval station at Goat Island will be abandoned.

GRAIN CROPS IN DANGER FROM DRY WINTER

Drying North Winds Have Retarded Growth of Winter Wheat

[By Associated Press]

SACKAMENTO, March 17.—Drying north winds, lack of rainfall and frost in many counties, have retarded the growth of pasture and winter grain in California, but the situation is not regarded as serious, although rain might fall soon in the valley and foothill regions to promte desirable conditions, says the semi-monthly crop report issued today by E. E. Kaufman, federal crop statistician, acting in cooperation with the state department of agriculture.

The entire state, with the exception of some of the southern counties, has been without precipitation of importance since February 15, the report states.

In general the rainfall in the state is below normal for this period of the year. Frost occurred quite generally through the grazing areas of the central and northern coastal counties which has tended to retard the growth of pasture grasses. Drying north winds were experienced in the Sacramento and upper San Joaquin valleys with more frequency than usual.

MOOSE CALVES DYING
[By Associated Press]

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 17.—Moose calves on the Kenai Peninsula, south of here, are dying of starvation because rabbits raided their winter feeding grounds, according to Walter J. Culver of the United States biological survey, who has just arrived here from the Peninsula. The moose are being fed by falling birch tres. The anifed by felling birch trees. The anifed by felling birch trees. The anifproach at the first sound of the axe and remain until the tree tumbles.

DRY DAY IN DUBLIN
[By Associated Press]

DUBLIN, March 17.—Many a good Irishman in Dublin may be obliged to forego today the time-honored practice of "drowning the shamrock" for the saloon assistants have decided to take the day off. Although the owners assure the public that their establishments will be open as far as possible, the day promises to be unusually dry.

COLORADO PAVING COST IS UNDER CONSIDERATION

Engineer Dupuy Works on Plans of Reinforcing Center Strip

City Engineer Dupuy is working on estimates of the cost of paving Colorado under the present plan of preserving the central portion of the thoroughfare where an 8-inch oil macadam was laid which is still good, and repaving the sides to meet it. The top will be scarified to bring it down to a uniform surface and will then be resurfaced.

The boulevard is to be widened ten feet east from Glendale avenue to the city limits, and there will also be some widening where it joins San Fernando road. The width to be repaved will average about 26 feet from Central east to the city limits, and while the cost has not been definitely determined, the engineer thinks it will average $5 or $6 a front foot. West from Central it will probably be more because curb and gutter will have to be supplied there.

LOCAL CARRIERS ORGANIZED ON CITY BASIS

Postal Employes Purely Glendale Organization

At the beginning of last year when the local postal force ceased to be a part of the Los Angeles post office, it became necessary to organize a branch of the national association of letter carriers.

This branch, which is known as the Jewel City Branch No. 1983 is organized with a membership of 100 per cent of the local carrier force.

Oscar W. Wright, well known for years as a carrier in the business district, is president. Newton Clark, formerly of Bakersfield, is vice-president. Frank C. Davis, formerly of Redlands is corresponding secretary. Fred Blodgett is financial secretary. Wm. Gamble (Smiling Bill), is treasurer and delegate at large. Geo. P. Brady (Oil King), is clerk of Sick Benefit association. Wm. Standley, A. S. Falkner and John Hague are trustees. Cal S. Nicholson, Dave Sullivan and Sylvester Wood are service relations councilmen.

Since its organization, this branch of the N. A. L. C. has accomplished many things beneficial to the local force and has taken its place among civic and fraternal bodies of Glendale.

Recently a sick and death benefit fund was established and numerous calls are made upon this fund. The branch at its last meeting decided to hold a Grand Easter ball which is really the carriers' first annual ball. This select affair will be held at the chamber of commerce hall on Monday evening, April 2, from 8:30 to 12 p. m.

The committee in charge is composed of A. Sylvester Wood (jazz specialist), chairman; Dave Sullivan, Lloyd Richards, Cal S. Nicholson and Ed Bielefelt. It is claimed by the postmen about the city who are disposing of the tickets that no detail has been overlooked and the prediction is made that the event will be long remembered in Glendale. Jerry Parker's jazz hounds will supply the charms that sooth and thrill and the program is guaranteed to please the most fastidious. "Follow the crowd" is the slogan of the postmen.

The local carriers' champion baseball team will meet Dr. Harrower's battalion on the field at Park and San Fernando road Sunday morning.

The entire postal family is much concerned over the misfortunes of that part of the force which is slated to be laid off on account of Uncle Sam's failure to provide sufficient funds to pay their worthy hire.

Six clerks have already felt the blow and it is rumored that a large part of the carrier force is soon to follow. This will work a serious hardship upon these men and those dependent upon them.

WRIGHT IN WRONG

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, March 17.—George Wright, a nurse of Los Angeles, was sought here today by police. He was alleged to have taken $12,000 in bonds from the effects of Henry Hawley, 72 years old, a business man of Los Angeles, who died in a hospital here January 24. Hawley became ill here en route to Mt. Clemens, Mich. Police say Wright took charge of the body, arranged for its shipment to Los Angeles and then disappeared.

TRAIN ROBBERS CAPTURED IN GETAWAY

After Holding Up Northern Pacific Train, Are Run Down in Auto

[By Associated Press]

TACOMA, Wash., March 17.—Two of the three men who held up a Northern Pacific train at South Prairie this morning were captured one and a half miles west of Enumclaw by Fred McHugh, C. P. Brown and Louise C. Relling, of Buckley, at 9 o'clock this morning. They were badly wounded. The third man escaped in the woods.

The two were brought back to Buckley and closely guarded, and were given surgical attention by Dr. Sheets.

The automobile used by the bandits was riddled with shot from the revolvers and rifles of the citizens of Buckley as the car passed through the town.

Dog Show at Pasadena on Sunday

PASADENA, March 17.—Amateur dog shows to encourage novice exhibitors who own unpedigreed canines will be held each Sunday afternoon at the airway, near Flintridge Country club, under the auspices of the Co-operative Kennel association of Southern California.

Silver trophies, presented by a lover of dogs, will be given to the winners on each occasion. The first of the series of the breed matches will be held Sunday afternoon, March 25, with the showing of shepherd and police dogs.

STATE OIL PRODUCT

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—California produced 16,426,759 barrels of crude oil in February, of which 43 new wells brought in during the month contributed 77,221 barrels, according to figures made public here by the American Petroleum Institute.

SCOUT LEADERS' ROUND TABLE TO BE HELD MONDAY

The march meeting of the Boy Scout Troop Leaders' Roundtable will be held Monday evening, March 19, at Bolton Hall, Tujunga, at 8 o'clock.

A. G. Barr, a naturalist of some note, will give a very interesting talk on the wild flowers of Southern California. He will also have his beautiful collection with him.

Ladies are asked to invite men neighbors.

Burbank, Glendale and Eagle Rock leaders are urged to meet at 7:30 sharp at the district scout office, 103½ South Brand, from where they will travel by automobile to Tujunga.

DUBOIS WORK TO BE SUNG AT CHURCH

Edwin John Albright to be Soloist at Holy Family Tomorrow

Edwin John Albright, baritone, is to be soloist at the Holy Family church on Passion Sunday, tomorrow, at the 11:15 mass.

Mr. Albright has selected the great baritone solo from the Seven Last Words of Christ by DuBois. This oratorio is one of the well-known religious works composed by one of the modern composers.

"God, my Father, why hast Thou forsaken me?" is the text of the fourth word from the oratorio which is to be sung, and it is peculiarly fitting for Passion Sunday.

Mrs. Thomas Smith is the organist of the church. Mr. Albright is to direct the large chorus choir for the special Easter music two weeks from Sunday.

FINANCIAL REVIEW OF THE WEEK IN THE EAST

Tendency of All Stocks Proves Upward Despite Profit Taking

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, March 17.—Weekly Financial Review)—Despite intermittent profit-taking and short selling in various sections of the east, the main price tendency in this week's stock market continued upward with the industrial averages again getting into new high ground. Railroad averages showed little change in the week although they enjoyed a brief period of mid-week activity and strength in continuance of a record in carloadings.

Trading was on a reduced scale because of the interference with wire traffic caused by the country wide storms. While pools were again the dominating factor in the determination of quoted values, an enlarged public demand was indicated by the unusually large increase in odd-lot transactions.

Equipments and sugars developed impressive strength virtually all the activities in those groups being new high prices for the year. Equipments benefitted by the heavy railroad buying of rolling stock, while the establishment of a new high price for Cuban raw sugar and a heavy buying of that product by British and French importers revived speculative interest in that group.

Motor, motor accessories, shipping, food, merchandising and some of the public utilities and oil issues also were heavily bought at various intervals but they developed considerable irregularity in the closing days of the week. Metal shares made a moderate response to reports of unusually heavy copper shipments.

The sharp recovery in French exchange, which got above 6.30 cents for the first time in nearly two months was predicted on reports that negotiations between the French and the Germans for the settlement of the Ruhr controversy would be instituted in the near future.

The sterling rate dropped in reflection of the unusually large volume of bills against grain, cotton, sugar and copper exports and the payment of more than $4,000,000 to the United States as interest on the war debt.

Canadian exchange also was conspicuously heavy.

GLENOAKS TRACT BEING WELL RECEIVED

Local People Are Securing Lots in This New Subdivision

Rare beauty is embodied in the remarkable section that has been named Glenoaks, and which was formerly Scholl Canyon. The groves of this beautiful canyon are the finest to be found anywhere in Southern California. They are an asset, the value of which cannot be overestimated.

The owners of Glenoaks are a company of high-thinking, far-seeing men. They do not simply see the canyon with its trees and its side-crevases, but they look beyond. They visualize what this canyon will be ten years from now, when hundreds of beautiful and stately homes will have been erected on the canyon's beautiful slopes.

"We have set a mark for which we are striving in Glenoaks," says the firm that owns this property. "We are planning a residential park of rare beauty—of unusual attractiveness for the man of moderate means.

"We have provided high-class but appropriate restrictions, that your home may be secured from unwelcome development. Particular care is being exercised to see that the class of people to whom we sell will be in every way desirable.

"The prices that are being charged for homesites in this tract are very low and we believe they will go higher. The early buyer has the advantage of a wider and better selection.

"On this tract there are thousands of beautiful oaks and acres of blooming fruit trees; miles of bridle paths."

Half-acre sites in this tract are being sold at $2,000. Nothing smaller than a half-acre will be sold, thus assuring the buyer that there will be no crowding together in this subdivision.

This tract is being placed on the market by the Frank Meline company of Los Angeles, which is known for its realty operations all over Southern California.

To reach the tract drive east on Broadway to Verdugo road, turn north on Verdugo and go three blocks to the large sign, which directs the way to the tract.

GLENDALE ART GROUP FORMED IN CITY

Casa Verdugo Park and Art Assn. Changes Its Name

At a meeting of members held at the home of the president, Mrs. Roy Ballagh, the name of the Casa Verdugo Park and Art association was changed to "The Glendale Art association."

At that meeting announcement was made that arrangements had been made to hold exhibits and lectures in the juvenile room of the Public Library building on East Harvard street.

The first exhibit to be given there will be presented Sunday, March 18, from 1 to 5 p. m., when there will be a showing of etchings and aqua-tints by John L. Cotton of this city, and of paintings by J. L. Schultz, Barton Manbert, and Peter Kransnow of this city.

The opening address of the lecture hour from 4 to 5 will be given by L. T. Rowley. Mr. Cotton will talk about etching, Harold Schwartz will speak concerning sculpture and Mrs. Peter Kransnow will discuss the relation of art to the community. The public is cordially invited.

Some people try to make the most of themselves and some others take anti-fat.

SUNSET GROVE IS CREAM OF THIS SECTION

New Hamlin & Hepburn Tract Is in the Heart of Northwest

The northwest section of Glendale is acknowledged to be the most exclusive residential portion of this city. It is a locality, everyone will admit, that promises to be one of the most wonderful home sections of Southern California. Even without homes upon it there is something "different" about that locality. When the better class of homes that are planned for that section have been constructed, it will, in fact, be a home-location where anyone would be glad to reside.

Sunset Grove is right in the heart of this popular northwest territory, and it is one of the most advantageously located tracts in that entire section. It is the cream of the home spots in this valley.

Hamlin & Hepburn, 203 West Broadway, who are putting this tract on the market, are among the oldest realty firms in Glendale. For months and months they have been bringing homeseekers to this section and as a result they are one of the most active firms in the upbuilding of this city.

In the presenting of Sunset Grove to prospective home buyers, this firm is doing for Glendale a real service. This tract is being laid out on lines that are sure to make it a credit to the city. The improvements that are being installed are of the highest possible type and everything connected with the tract is really good.

The lots in Sunset Grove are being sold on the amazingly easy terms of $100 down and $20 and $25 per month. This gives even those of modest means an opportunity of sharing in the profits that are to be made in the upbuilding of this tract. The building restrictions are $3,000 and $3,500, and no temporary homes are permitted.

MUSIC SECTION ANNOUNCES ITS PROGRAM

The Concert of March 22 to Be Great Treat to Music Lovers

The music section of the Tuesday Club, which is giving a concert next Thursday evening, March 22, in the new club house at Lexington and Central, promises a great treat and the fame of the artists who are to provide the program justifies all the expectations raised.

To begin with there will be the variety afforded by a pianist, a violinist and a singer.

The singer is Flora Myers Engle, dramatic and lyric soprano, who has a voice of great brilliance and beauty, with bell-like qualities, which delight her audiences. She is a finished artist and ranks high in musical circles of the east. She has appeared in light opera and in oratorio and is an experienced concert singer. Her first appearance in Los Angeles was with Ward-Stephens and her fine work as soloist in Rossini's "Stabat Mater" in the Hollywood Bowl, established her place in musical circles in Southern California.

Calmon Lubobisky, the violinist, is also a Hollywood Bowl artist, who has been heard in Glendale and who delighted audiences here. He is Russian born but came to America in his childhood and laid the foundation of his musical education in Chicago, later studying abroad with Theodore Spiering and Franz von Vecsey. He is considered one of the leading violinists of this country.

The third artist needs no introduction to Glendale because he is a resident here. The name of Brahm Van den Berg in connection with any concert announcement is sufficient to draw a good audience. Though he has appeared here many times he cannot come too often to please the critical music lovers of our city who regard him as the foremost pianist of the west if not of the entire United States.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Peckham of 115 North Central avenue are entertaining as their house guests over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Luther M. Flagg of Spokane, Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Otis of Riverside and A. C. Clark of Hollywood. Mr. Flagg and Mr. Peckham are cousins. All of the guests, the Peckhams and Mrs. Charles Barker of South Glendale avenue were former neighbors at Bryn Mawr, Chicago.

MR. AND MRS. BROWN CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Joseph M. Brown and Louisa E. Brown of Sycamore Canyon road celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on March 15. They were married at Milton, Pa., in 1873. Mr. Brown was born March 15, 1849, at Light Street, Columbia county, Pa., and Mrs. Brown was born September 23, 1851, in Milton, Pa. They were the parents of three children, Martin, who died in infancy; Orville E., who resides at Alhambra, and M. Elmer, living in Sycamore Canyon road.

W. C. T. U. MEETS AT MOTTERN HOME

Celebrates Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown

Members of the Glendale W. C. T. U. were delightfully entertained Friday at the home of Mrs. R. W. Mottern on North Adams street for an all-day meeting which was featured not only by the reports of retiring officers and election of new ones, but also by the celebration of the golden wedding of Mrs. Joseph Brown of Sycamore canyon, the day before having been the 50th anniversary of her marriage to Mr. Brown.

The reports showed a large amount of work done, the treasurer's statement showing a gratifying amount of money raised and expended. Statistics concerning membership revealed an increase from 140 to 218.

At the noon hour a reception in charg of Mrs. O. F. Thomas was given for Mrs. Brown, who is the only remaining charter member of the local union. She was showered with flowers by each member and received as the special gift of the union a large bouquet of golden jonquils. She was also presented with a beautiful cake bearing the inscription "Golden Wedding."

Though taken by surprise, Mrs. Brown was able to make gracious acknowledgment and give reminiscences of her wedding day back in Pennsylvania, when the roads were deep with mud and the bridal carriage which was to convey bride and bridegroom to the depot failed to arrive. They were equal to the emergency, however, the bride walking the half mile to the train, while "Joe" and his brother wheeled the trunk in a barrow. So rattled did the bridegroom become that at the junction where they were to change cars he would have taken the same train back but for the correction of the bride, who then and there began her direction of Joe.

"Blest be the Tie" was sung and the company adjourned to the dining room, where a bountiful and beautifully appointed luncheon was served, Mrs. Brown cutting and serving her wedding cake.

At the afternoon session officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Ruby Smart; vice president, Mrs. C. W. Bacon; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edith Dockeray; recording secretary, Mrs. Annie Sipple; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Thomas; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Cora Wilson. Church vice presidents—Adventist, Mrs. C. A. Brandstater; Baptist, Mrs. G. H. Rowe; Christian, Mrs. C. A. Cole; Congregationalist, Mrs. Inez Sipple; Lutheran, Mrs. Ida Elstrom; First Methodist, Mrs. Louisa Morton; Methodist church, south, Mrs. Charley Rumble; Glendale Presbyterian, Mrs. R. W. Mottern; Tropico Presbyterian, Mrs. Lily Richardson; West Glendale Methodist, Mrs. John Camphouse.

Department superintendents will be chosen at the next meeting.

MEDICAL RESERVE OFFICERS MEET

Dr. H. C. Smith and Dr. E. R. Remmen, both medical reserve officers of the United States army, attended the dinner and fourteenth meeting of the association of the army of the United States, held at the Elite in Los Angeles Friday night at 6 o'clock.

The after-dinner program included an address by Col. Roger S. Fitch, general staff of the U. S. army, on "The Defense of the Pacific Coast." Ex-Senator Cornelius Cole indulged in some very pleasant "Reminiscences"; Lucien Brunswig made a very clear and interesting presentation of the French point of view in connection with the occupation of the Ruhr by French troops. Variety was afforded by the humorous contributions of Ralph C. Faulkner and the music furnished by the orchestra of the Los Angeles Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the First Presbyterian church of Glendale will occupy the pulpit of the Highland Park Presbyterian church tomorrow morning.

MRS. C. C. NOBLE ADDRESSES ACACIA MOTHERS

Mrs. C. C. Noble of Los Angeles, state membership chairman, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Acacia Avenue Mothers' club, Parent-Teacher association, which met yesterday afternoon at the school. Her talk was on P.-T. A. work in general and she told of what the P.-T. A. had accomplished in national, state and district work. She particularly emphasized the child welfare work.

Miss Genevieve Wiley of Pasadena, sister of Mrs. D. B. Edwards of Glendale, and who is an accomplished pianist, gave a group of piano numbers(including "Bouree in D Minor," (Bach) and "Butterfly" (Grieg).

Announcement was made of the vaudeville show to be given at the high school auditorium on April 5 for the benefit of the Acacia Avenue club by the pupils of Mrs. Gardner Wallace, teacher of dramatic art in the night school at Polytechnic high of Los Angeles.

WHITE SHRINE HAS DISTINGUISHED GUEST

June Carter of Denver, Colo., supreme worthy high priestess of the White Shrine, was the guest of honor at a 6:30 o'clock dinner given by the members of Omar tent No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem of Glendale, last night at the Harriett Mae Tea Room. There were seventy-five present at the dinner. Later the members and visitors adjourned to the Masonic Temple, where the regular meeting of Omar tent was held, with Mrs. Orma V. Naudain, worthy high priestess, in charge. There were about 250 people present at this business session. Six candidates were initiated.

After the business session an interesting program was given, including readings by Mrs. Evelyn Pierce, and vocal solos by Mrs. Nana Custer, D. Ripley Jackson and Mr. Hyer of Long Beach. Installation of the recently elected officers will take place on April 6.

FISCHERS ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fischer of 117 West Cypress street entertained Thursday evening in honor of their daughter Elsie's birthday.

During the early part of the evening games were played and a number of musical selections enjoyed. At a late hour cake, candy and ice cream were served. The decorations were green and white and the same color scheme was carried out in the favors and refreshments. An immense bouquet of sweet peas decorated the luncheon table, about which were seated the Misses Elsie Fischer, Dora Knoll, Linda Bohn, Mildred, Helen and Edna Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. L. Fischer, Mr. William Heidenreich and Rev. H. O. Kringel.

Thursday Club To Have Tea Party

Mrs. Roy Bancroft of 121 West Eulalia street, assisted by Mrs. McNaughton Barnes, Mrs. James Cunningham and Mrs. F. A. FOOTHILL CLUB IS ENTERTAINED BY MRS. TABOUR

Mrs. J. B. Tabour of 1315 North Louise street was hostess Friday afternoon to the members of the Foothill Club. Plans were made for the presentation of book reviews, operatic reviews and the reading of modern plays. A committee for this new work was appointed, including Mrs. Perce Curtis, Mrs. C. H. Crawford and Mrs. E. B. Wyman.

Mrs. Perce Curtis, the newly elected president, presented her resignation to that office on account of other official duties, which was accepted with much regret. Mrs. Julius Kranz was unanimously elected as president of the club. At the close of the afternoon delicious refreshments were served. Carnations, spring flowers and greenery were used as decorations throughout the house.

JEWELLS ENTERTAIN VISITORS FROM MICHIGAN

R. C. Jewell and his son, Percy Jewell, of 1319 East Harvard, who came to Glendale from Howell, Mich., are having the pleasure of entertaining for a few days two interesting young men visitors, former classmates of Percy in the Howell high school. They are brothers, their names being Francis and Winfield Line. Last June they were graduated from the high school mentioned and shortly after started on a tour of the United States as pedestrians, with the purpose of earning their way as they went.

They came west by the northern route and crossed the line into California about the 15th of June. Since that date they have traversed the state from north to south three times, and secured a very good idea of its character and contour.

They reached Glendale Friday nigth and will leave in a few days for San Diego and Yuma. Their aim is to visit all the states between the latitude of their home and the Pacific coast and just what their route eastward will be they cannot now determine.

Their plan to be self-sustaining has worked out so well that they have accumulated $700, which has been sent east to be banked to their credit and used by them for the college course upon which they will enter at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, next fall.

They are fine, husky lads, well browned by the sun, and if they continue their present pace will have no trouble in putting themselves through college for they have had experience in a variety of paying avocations. When asked what they did to earn their money they said: "Ranching, mining, harvesting, anything that comes along."

By next August they expect to be at home after having travelled on foot or with an occasional lift on the road from automobilists, 25,000 miles. They will try to cross the desert before warm weather and then make leisurely progress eastward.

L. A. CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL FORMS AUXILIARY HERE

Motion Is Made at the Thursday Afternoon Club

A motion to foster the organization of a Glendale auxiliary to aid the work of the Children's hospital of Los Angeles was carried at the regular meeting of the Thursday Afternoon club held yesterday at the home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, corner of Brand boulevard and Laurel street, with Mrs. W. C. Mabry presiding. Mrs. Albert Crutcher, president of the Children's Hospital society of Los Angeles, and Mrs. G. P. Griffith, member of the board of managers, were the speakers of the afternoon.

After the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Miss Eva Daniels, Mrs. W. C. Mabry reported on attending several reciprocity day receptions at neighboring clubs. It was decided that the Thursday Afternoon club would renew the custom of having reciprocity day, although no definite date was set for same.

Mrs. E. V. Bacon announced a meeting of the ways and means committee and other members of the club interested in the coming bazaar for Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Roy Bancroft, 121 West Eulalia street. Mrs. J. L. Wilbur of 321 West Cypress street announced a St. Patrick's day card party to be held at her home Saturday night, the proceeds of which will go to the clubhouse. Mrs. Roy Bancroft, assisted by Mrs. James Cunningham, Mrs. McNaughton Barnes and Mrs. Archer, will entertain with an Easter tea and card party on Wednesday afternoon, April 4, from 2 o'clock until 5, at the home of Mrs. Bancroft.

A straw vote for officers for the ensuing year, which will be for the information of the nominating committee, will be taken at the next forum meeting of the club.

Mrs. Kemper Campbell of the program committee introduced Mrs. Crutcher, who gave a most interesting account of the work being done at the Children's hospital in Los Angeles, which is open to all children of Southern California under 12 years of age. This institution has been in existence over 21 years and the upkeep is through contributions made.

A neat sum is realized from the salvage department, which is also doing a great social service work in addition to making money for the hospital, according to Mrs. Crutcher. Mrs. Griffith told of some of the needs of the hospital in the way of linens, gowns and other articles such as are needed in every private home. An invitation was extended to the members of the club to visit the hospital, which is always open to visitors.

A meeting will be held Tuesday night with Mrs. Bancroft to take steps in organizing a Glendale auxiliary of the Children's hospital society.

At the close of the business session refreshments were served. The hostesses for the afternoon and those who assisted in serving included Miss Eva Daniels, Dr. Jessie Russell, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Server, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Bancroft, Mrs. Archer and Miss Corinne Orff.

First Methodist Brotherhood Banquet

The first meeting of the Brotherhood of the First Methodist Episcopal church under its newly elected president, Mr. C. C. Cunningham, held last evening was a rousing success. Over a hundred were on hand for the banquet, which was served by the ladies of the church, and the program that followed.

The men's orchestra played all through the supper period, which was followed by a men's quartet and a solo selection, "The Wreck of the Hesperus" by Mr. J. B. Clark.

The principal speaker was Dr. Walter Buckner, pastor of the Lake avenue Methodist church of Pasadena, whose subject was "Hidebound." He described a "hidebound" man as one who knows only his own business and has no sympathetic knowledge of, or co-operative interest in, the hopes and ambitions of his fellowmen and his community.

He said in part: "The two fixed facts of life are love and honor. Love will not fail and honor never yields The man who wraps himself in the hide of his business and loses sight of these two fundamentals, love and honor is not tending to his business. Some one else must attend to it for him.

"No man has the right to be 'hidebound.' I would not try to reform the 'hidebound' man. I'd shoot him! I'd shoot him in the head and heart! I'd shoot him with new ideas and sentiments until he either woke up, got busy and cooperated or got out."

Dr. Buckner also warned against the tendency of our balmy Southern California climate to make us soft, self-indulgent, forgetful of the stranger within our gates, and declared that we must work with a "will, purpose, and intelligence against the tendency."

C. L. Brenkman Brings Son to Council to Urge Dog Ordinance Enforcement

The scene that led up to the order for the enforcement of the dog ordinance being given Thursday at the city council was heartrending one, the central figure being little Roy Ellison Brenkman, 5 years of age, who is suffering from injuries inflicted by a dog. The lad, his hand resting within that of his father, was led from the rear of the council room to the railing behind which the council was sitting, Mr. Brenkman raising the boy and placed him on the rail so that all in the room might see him. He is a beautiful child—a regular boy—a lad similar to those who brighten hundreds of homes in Glendale.

"I am here," said Mr. Brenkman, "to plead for the safety of the children of Glendale—to ask that the boys and the girls of the city be granted the freedom that the dogs of the city now enjoy. At this time the dogs are permitted to run at will up and down the streets of Glendale, and in order that the children may be safe it is necessary for them to be kept in the home. I am asking that this practice be reversed. The streets were never made for dogs, but they were made for the use of human beings. The time has come when it is not safe for children and even adults to walk the streets of Glendale on account of the dogs, and I believe the dog should be confined on the owner's premises and the safe use of the streets be returned to the citizens of Glendale.

"I understand that there have been 20 cases of children being given treatment as a result of being bitten by dogs in the last few weeks in Glendale, and I hope the council will endeavor to see that it is the last. I am not pleading for my boy—he is already a victim—but am thinking of the youngsters who have not yet been bitten.

"I wish all you folks could have seen the torture this lad went through when nitric acid was poured into his wounds, one of which you could lay your finger in. The sight nearly broke our hearts—it was almost more than we could bear. I wish you could know the mental anguish we are now suffering. Every time we look at this little lad we wonder how much longer he will be with us. Will he be with us for a month or two months or will he leave us before that time? That is the question that is eating our hearts away.

"Every minute of the day we are trying to get closer to our boy. We all trying to get all the mental pictures of him we can before he leaves us, for we do not know how soon he will be taken.

"Of course he will be given the Pasteur treatment, for we are leaving nothing undone that would save him. But suppose the treatment does not prove effective—then what?

"Gentlemen, one child, no matter to whom he belongs, is worth more than all the dogs in the world. I love dogs as well as any man, but I believe, too, that they should be kept where they can do no harm to innocent children such as this child.

"I would remind you that there are comparatively few people in Glendale who do not want the running of dogs on the Glendale streets regulated. The silent vast majority are those who believe that the children should be protected, and that the freedom of the dogs should be regulated.

"I am not trying to say how the dogs should be regulated. I only ask that something be done and be done at once."

HADDEN MEETINGS CLOSE FIRST WEEK

The first week of the Hadden meetings and Bible conference closed most successfully Friday evening at the Glendale Presbyterian church," said Rev. Louis Tinning, the assistant pastor, this morning. "Thus far there has been a fine response in the way of interest and attendance, and the interest is growing steadily.

"Dr. Hadden has been presenting subjects of more than ordinary interest. Such subjects, together with Dr. Hadden's pleasing personality and his almost unconscious sense of humor, have held the attention of his audience.

"During the next week the discussions on the English Bible will continue at the afternoon sessions. The evening services will be evangelistic.

Two great services will be held tomorrow. The assistant pastor, Rev. Louis Tinning, will preside at the morning service and the subject of Dr. Hadden's sermon will be "Co-Workers With God." In the evening, the pastor, Dr. W. E. Edmonds, will conduct the service and the sermon subject of Dr. Hadden will be, "The Problem of Abraham." The public is invited to attend any or all of these services.

JELLISON MOTOR COMPANY STOPS TIRE SALE

Calls Off Sale of Keatons After Advertising Today

The Jellison Motor company desires to announce that on account of the Keaton Tires having been returned to the company from which they were purchased it has called off the special sale of the same announced in the automobile section of the Glendale Daily Press. The automobile section contains the advertisement of the Jellison Motor Company offering Keaton Tires at a reduction, and as it was printed last night, it is impossible to eliminate the advertisement from this issue. However, the Jellison Motor company has no Keaton Tires at any price.

OLDSMOBILE IS PIONEER TRAIL CAR OF 1905

26 Years Ago Crossed the Country From Coast to Coast

"To drive an automobile from coast to coast in 1905 seemed incredible, but the manufacturers of Oldsmobiles believed their car could do it and they did," said Mr. C. H. Hunter, 210 West Broadway, distributor of the Oldsmobile for Glendale.

"Twenty-six years ago the first automobile factory was erected in Michigan; it was for the manufacture of Oldsmobiles. Twenty-three years ago the principles of quantity production, on which the motor industry has been built were worked out in that factory. Fourteen hundred Oldsmobiles were completed and sold that year, an unprecedented record. The first two cylinder car was an Oldsmobile, carrying the reputation of American craftsmen to the four corners of the world. The Oldsmobile was the pioneer and remains today the dependable car on the market," continued Mr. Hunter.

"We will be glad to go over the points in favor of the Oldsmobile with anyone interested, whether he desires to buy or not. We consider it a pleasure to show the Oldsmobile."

MANY LOTS SOLD IN NEW TRACT IN GLENDALE

Homesites in Bellehurst Park Are Selling Like Wildfire

Forty thousand dollars' worth of homesites were sold in Bellehurst Park on Thursday afternoon—and this was just a beginning.

The shrewd investor knows that where people collect or where a large number pool their interests in real estate, there values are sure to advance. That this vast amount of money was spent by homeseekers in Bellehurst should mean something to the fellow who wants to place his money where it will grow.

For years the wonderful Thom ranch has been literally pleading to be subdivided. It has been extending its arms to the man or group of men who would cut it up and offer it to the greedy home-buying public of Southern California.

This yearning has been satisfied and the result is beautiful Bellehurst Park.

This little picture will tell something about this tract:

"Here it was—the famous Thom ranch—its rolling, fertile groves lying in the heart of Glendale, untouched—unmvaded.

"Glendale, forging ahead like wildfire, swept up to and around this ranch, leaving it like a beautiful green island in the midst of the city. Then came the hand of change. Through unusual circumstances, unnecessary to relate, the property has just come into the possession of the company that is cuting it up.

"Despite its right-downtown location, this firm is able to give the people of Glendale the unheard-of opportunity of buying sites in this magnificent property, fully 30 per cent below actual market value."

This tract is owned and is being subdivided by the Walter H. Leimert Co., the Glendale office of which firm is at 246 South Brand boulevard.

Mrs. Kate Starrett of Glendale, who recently underwent a major operation in the Anaheim hospital, is now sufficiently recovered to be able to return home.

A certain restaurant is notorious for its tough meat. A stranger entered one day and ordered a steak. it, but failed. He called the waiter and complained.

"I can't get my fork into this," he said. "It is as hard as a rock."

"I'm sorry, sir," said the waiter; "it's the best we've got, and, anyhow, I can't take it back."

"What do you mean? Why can't you take it back?"

"It's bent, sir!"

JACKIE COOGAN AT THE T. D. & L. SUNDAY

There comes Sunday to the T., D. & L. Theatre a picture heralded as a "milestone on the highway of art," and which bears the highest recommendations in its own right. It is "Oliver Twist," starring that adorable child actor of the screen, Jackie Coogan; produced by Sol Lesser; directed by Frank Lloyd, and presented by a company of the most distinguished screen celebrities, including Lon Chaney, Gladys Brockwell, Lionel Belmore and a host more.

Jackie Coogan in "Oliver Twist"

The picture is described as the most ambitious in which the juvenile star, Jackie Coogan, has ever appeared.

A number of society folk of Riverside and South Beach, Conn., took a plunge into the movies recently to assist Marion Davies in the Venetian carnival scenes for her new Cosmopolitan picture, "Adam and Eva.," which will close at the T., D. & L. Theatre tonight. Olive Trombley, niece of Frederick Beetson, assistant to Will Hays, was one of those who participated.

VAUDEVILLE AT THE GLENDALE THEATER TONIGHT

The Tropical Trio have a spectacular specialty which will be brought to the Glendale Theatre on Saturday, March 17, as one of the features of a five-unit vaudeville performance. They use native musical instruments which given in special scenery brings an atmosphere of realism to this big production. "The Goldies" call their offering "The End of the Line," which is a big laugh producer. Deloach & Corbin are known as "Polite Entertainers." There is humor in this act, but it is of the higher class and devoid of all crudeness. Max Freehand Duo have a novelty. It consists of a balancing performance. Several numbers come as a distinct surprise. Roy & Willsen are a clever pair of entertainers who call their specialty "Variety De Luxe." It consists of most everything that is entertaining.

Simulation of age in the portrayal of character before the camera is more than paint-deep, according to Bert Lytell, the Metro star, who, in his latest photoplay, "The Face Between," appears not only as a young man, but also as that young man's father. "The Face Between" will be shown tonight at the Glendale Theatre.

Sunday's Program

For his latest motion picture sensation, "One Exciting Night," which has been announced as the feature attraction for Sunday at the Glendale Theatre, D. W. Griffith, master-maker of photoplays, has taken for his cue the increasing popularity of the last two or three years of the stage melodrama and has produced a mystery picture par excellence.

LUBRICATION IS VITAL TO CAR SERVICE

"A great deal depends upon how well you lubricate your machine as to the service you get and the trouble you experience in operating it," said Fred S. Hill, the automobile expert at 124 South Orange. "Seventy-five per cent of all trouble with automobile engines is caused by faulty lubrication. This fact shows how vital lubrication is to the life and efficiency of the automobile," continued Mr. Hill.

"It is very necessary then to buy the best of oils. Millions of dollars are wasted every year by motorists who buy poor oils. The lubrication of the pistons is the hardest test of good oil qualities. During the combustion stroke the receding piston leaves a thin coating of oil on the cylinder walls. This film is attacked by the great heat of the burning fuel, and cannot withstand the intense exposure unless it resists effectively evaporation and burning, and is chemically pure."

It was the middle of the night; the house was still, save for a strange creaking downstairs and the sound of Jones's rythmic snoring.

But his wife was awake and afraid.

"Jack, Jack," she whispered. "Wake up! There's a burglar down stairs! I heard him!"

Jones was out of bed in an instant.

"Hist!" he said; and, slipping on shoes and trousers, he crept from the room.

The wife, listening intently, heard nothing for a long time. At last she could stand it no longer, and, creeping to the stairway, called down:

"Jack!"

"Well, what is it?" her husband's voice replied. It came, not from below, but above.

"What on earth," said Mrs. Jones, "are you doing up in the attic?"

"Why," came the reply, "didn't you say the burglar was downstairs?"

KIWANIS CLUB IS AGAINST SUIT FOR INJUNCTION

Favors Budget Revision for Restoration of School Funds

The greater part of the noon hour luncheon of the Kiwanis club at the Glen Inn yesterday was devoted to the transaction of new and routine business. However, the club paused long enough to turn its attention to several matters of vital importance to the community.

The educational committee thru its chairman, N. C. Hayhurst introduced a resolution urging Governor Richardson to revise his budget, cutting off funds from the teachers' training schools, and include expenditures made necessary by the enormous increase in the attendance at public schools. The resolution was unanimously adopted and is as follows:

"We, the members of the Educational department of the Kiwanis club of Glendale do hereby submit to the Kiwanis club of said city the following resolutions and that a copy be mailed to governor of the state and the senator and assemblyman of this district:

"That Governor Friend W. Richardson and the legislature restore in the budget the sums and amounts which shall be sufficient to maintain the public school system of the state at an undiminished high standard.

"That the budget for the Teachers' colleges be raised to such an amount as to maintain them as practical, professional training schools.

"That an adequate amount for the free text book fund be added to the budget as submitted.

"That the department of physical education be continued as before, and appropriation made accordingly.

"That Americanization of immigrants be provided for in the budget.

"That sufficient funds be set aside for continuation of the Southern office of the state board of education."

Perhaps the biggest event organized by the Kiwanis club will be the entertainment by the Orpheus club in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse in Glendale on Saturday, April 14. Through the efforts of O. W. Andresen, who is a member of the Orpheus club, Glendale will have the privilege of hearing the "Orpheus 4" besides the big chorus. For eighteen years the "Orpheus 4" have traveled over the country entertaining millions with songs and music, and the coming entertainment is looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

Discussion of the proposed airport was indulged in at length by Dr. T. C. Young and others. A motion was carried endorsing the purchase of the land for the airport by the city council, and a resolution urging the dissolving of the injunction.

Ben Towman gave a short talk on automobile legislation before the present law-making body, and enlightened the club on several important bills pending. Attorney James McEryde was to have discussed some of the bills, but for want of time did not go into details. Mr. McBryde said Senator Burlingame Johnson has introduced 10 bills in the senate, out of the 680 bills before that body, and that Assemblyman Weller was credited with having introduced 43 bills and 15 constitutional amendments.

Several members of the board of public works of Los Angeles and other cities were present as guests of the club, coming to Glendale on an inspection mission at the Tropico Potteries. Members and guests registered were: A. S. Brown, Chas. F. Stuart, Ben F. Dupuy, J. D. Fraser, Ed M. Radke, B. F. Cook, C. J. Hatz, Wm. C. Page, Dr. J. P. Luecock, Eugene Gordon, J. H. Wittmeyer, Wm. Murphy.

Bob Philp of Coker & Taylor gave the silent boost in the form of pencils and clean-a-phone celluloids. The attendance prize given by Hiram Wilson was won by Chas. Stuart.

The Wonder Breakfast Food

Little Jack's Favorite

PERSISTENCY AND HARD LABOR HAS SCORED AGAIN—DREAM OF THE SCIENTIST HAS BEEN REALIZED—THE ACME OF PERFECTION HAS BEEN REACHED

A real nourishing, palatable, easily digestible food, doing the work of both food and medicine, has at last been perfected.

In Little Jack's Favorite, the newest and latest and best breakfast food to make its bow to the good people of Southern California, the dream of the scientist has been realized.

The world will little know the long tedious hours spent in working out the wonderful combinations of pure, wholesome, palatable, digestible foods which go to make up the Wonder Breakfast Food.

"Deliver the Goods" is the demand of the day. Those who cannot are soon relegated to the Discard. Those who Can and Do are the Winners.

Time will stamp the Wonder Breakfast Food as a winner. Why? Because it can produce results. It is a food and medicine with absolutely nothing in its ingredients but the purest and most wholesome of foods.

Constipation has been called the Mother of Diseases. This stubborn condition is quickly and surely relieved and broken up by the use of Little Jack's Favorite. Eighty per cent of all diseases of the human body are traceable to the colon by physicians. In order to keep the colon in proper condition the bowels must be kept clean. More than fifty per cent of the American people are daily resorting to all sorts of pills, tablets and other harmful compounds which serve the purpose for a few days or weeks and then fail utterly. The patient is obliged to resort to something stronger. So it goes from bad to worse, until a well set, deeply grounded case of constipation has developed.

Imagine the joy and gladness with which a waiting populace will greet the heralding of a good, wholesome, digestible, palatable breakfast food which is truly a food in every particular and at the same time keeps the stomach and bowels in that even, normal condition which insures perfect health.

To those who are bothered with any kind of stomach trouble or bowel trouble, Little Jack's Favorite will be a boon.

One package at 25c for 1 pound or 40c for 2 pounds will convince the most skeptical. Would you be willing to give 40c to be permanently relieved of that stubborn stomach or bowel condition? Then buy one package of Little Jack's Favorite and be convinced. Hundreds are already singing its praises where it has been introduced. Eat it and get well. Get it at

NOTICE OF AWARD OF CONTRACT

Pursuant to Statute and to Resolution of Award of the Council of the City of Glendale, California, adopted the 15th day of March, 1923, directing this notice, notice is hereby given that the said Council, in open session, on the 8th day of March, 1923, opened, examined and publicly declared all sealed proposals offered for the following improvement, towit:

The improvement of a portion of California Avenue in the City of Glendale, as described in Resolution of Intention No. 1785, passed by said Council on the 11th day of January, 1923, to which said Resolution reference is hereby made for a description of said work, and of the district to be assessed therefor.

The Council of the City of Glendale determines that serial bonds shall be issued to represent assessments of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year at the rate of seven per cent per annum on all sums unpaid until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act to provide a system of street improvement bonds to represent certain assessments for the cost of street work and improvements within municipalities and also for the payment of such bonds," approved February 27, 1893, and of all Acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof.

And thereafter, to-wit: On the 15th day of March, 1923, awarded the contract for said work to the lowest regular responsible bidder, to-wit: Peter L. Ferry, at the prices specified for said improvement in his proposal, on file for said improvement, to-wit:

Grading, per linear foot	$ .30
Paving, per square foot	.10
Curb, Class "B," per linear foot	.50
Sidewalk, per square foot	.18
Cast Iron Pipe, Complete	1050.00

And that said award has been approved by the Mayor of the said City of Glendale.

Clerk's office, City of Glendale, California, 17th day of March, 1923.

Beautiful Bellehurst Park

or Glendale people will gobble up Bellehurst Park before you get a chance at it!

Never in all our experience in selling ten million dollars worth of high class property in the San Francisco Bay region have we seen such excitement as was created in that wonder-city of Glendale by our full page ads in all the Los Angeles papers yesterday.

In Glendale they know Bellehurst Park!

They know the marvelous beauty of this old 200 acre estate. In past days they have picnicked under its spreading oaks and magnolias, plucking oranges and grapefruit from its beautiful groves.

They know in Glendale that it is only 5 minutes away from Brand and Broadway where the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles is erecting a $600,000.00 office building.

They know it is only two blocks from the main boulevard and car line.

They have learned in the past few weeks, something of the character of the Walter H. Leimert Co.; they have watched the big work going forward; they see the finest residential park of California in the making!

They know in Glendalt how this wild-fire growing city is built up absolutely solid to Bellehurst Park, just leaning over the edge ready to pour into it, sending values up, and up and UP!

So!

When Glendale read our full pages in the Los Angeles papers Friday, half the town it seems came trooping to our office.

What excitement!

Figures to date—$160,000.00 in sales in Bellehurst Park to Glendale only! The city manager bought one of the first lots! It's a race, Los Angeles for Bellehurst Park, with Glendale in the lead.

Facts of Great Importance

No temporary buildings, duplexes, bungalow courts or apartments permitted. Only single family dwellings costing $4,000, $5,000, $6,000 and $7,500, depending on location.

High class street improvements with curbs and sidewalks free to purchasers, now being rushed to completion.

City water, gas, and electricity guaranteed to every lot.

Big lots, nearly all 50, 60 or 70 feet frontage covered with bearing orange, lemon, grapefruit, or olive groves. Many shade trees over 40 years old.

Four schools within five blocks.

Pacific Electric trains to Los Angeles and down-town-Glendale pass within two blocks.

This is our first tract in the Metropolitan area of Los Angeles. Our Southern California reputation rests upon the values we offer to you who buy today in Bellehurst Park.

We have set prices way down 50% below the values justified by the ideal location, present beauty, and assured future of this wonderful property.

100% profit should practically be realized immediately.

Indorsements that count.

MEN'S U. S. ARMY MUNSON-LAST SHOES AT $2.95
Sizes 5½ to 12.

Never again will you be able to buy these shoes at such a low price. We were lucky in finding a manufacturer, who was overstocked with them, and needed ready cash, so we bought them at almost one-half of the regular price. This shoes is made over the U. S. Army Munson-last, with extra heavy stitching; special grained chrome brown leather used thruout. An ideal shoe for workmen, farmers, icemen, postmen, carpenters and motormen, who are obliged to be on their feet all-day.

Send correct size. Pay postman $2.95 on delivery, or send us a money order.

If you are not satisfied with these shoes after you examine them, we will promptly refund your money.

THE VICTORY

Whatever it is, if it ought to be done,
No matter what job it is under the sun.
If it's your job to do, and if you ought to do it,
Don't shirk it or hide from it, run from it, rue it,
Don't fuss or complain, and don't worry and fret,
It's your obligation, and has to be met.
So don't put it off till some vague after while,
But do it—and smile.

It may be unpleasant, but jobs have to be Unpleasant sometimes, or for you or for me;
It may not be easy, but where is the joy
If you, a strong man, do the task of a boy?
Get busy, I tell you, and ask for a job
That's the size of a man, and your pulses will throb
With joy that is new—in your very best style
Just do it—and smile.

Don't think that the old world is treating you ill,
It's making a man of you, and if you will
It's finding you courage and spirit to win
The battle of life if you'll only begin.
Begin where you must at the dawn of the day,
Take what place you can, but you don't have to stay;
And you'll grow and be glad and succeed after while
If you'll do it—and smile.

GLEN ANGELES PARK EXTENDS ITS ARMS TO THE HOMESEEKER

WILLIAM S. SPARR BUYS SENATOR FRANCIS' INTEREST IN THE WHOLE SPARR TRACT

Unable to Remain in So. California, Iowan Retires From Organization of Big Canyon Tract; Sparr to Aid in Comprehe nsive Plans of Work

William S. Sparr has recently purchased the interest of Senator Leslie E. Francis in the firm of Francis, Barnum and Walters, who have charge of the development and sale of Sparr Heights, the magnificent 1500-acre tract on the Verdugo road, northeast of Glendale.

Senator Francis came to Southern California with the intention of locating here permanently, but his multifarious interests in the east are so engrossing that he found that he could not give them the attention they deserved while so far away from the seat of their activities, nor, while attending them, devote the time and consideration to Sparr Heights that such a great enterprise demands.

Mr. Sparr, whose interests in the Verdugo valley are so large and whose belief in the wonderful future of that section is so optimistic, immediately purchased Senator Francis' interest and will take an active part in the comprehensive plan of development now under way.

One hundred thousand dollars has already been spent in engineering work, in the grading, curbing and guttering of streets and the installation of gas and water mains and electricity. Material for the surfacing of the streets is now being delivered. The gas will soon be available on the lots, and the many new homes whose plans have been awaiting it, will at once be built.

Work is to start immediately upon a combination gas and filling station, garage and apartment building that will be located on the south side of Montrose boulevard and which will supply a demand that already exists.

Tupper and Anderson have purchased seven lots on the main boulevard upon which they will immediately erect a $15,000 building designed to house a Ford-Lincoln agency to supply the rapidly growing demand for cars in this section.

Captain Brown of the Engineering Service company of Los Angeles, has just let the contract for the erection of a handsome building directly opposite that of Tupper and Anderson. This will be devoted to a high-class cafe. The design for this structure is a unique combination of the Spanish and Italian Renaissance styles, and is by the well-known firm of English architects, the Stacy Judd company of Hollywood.

The engineers are now busy, establishing the grades of the streets on the picturesque rolling hills which are opposite the site of the Oakmont Country club. When their work is finished a number of charming residences will be constructed by those who have selected these choice locations. All of these lot command a wonderful view of the two adjacent mountain chains, and overlook the greens of the golf course in the immediate foreground.

CUT IN FUND FOR REALTY WORK DECRIED

A resolution, taking exception to the cut in the appropriation for the carrying on the work of the state real estate department by Governor Richardson, passed by the Pasadena Real Estate Board, was endorsed by the Glendale Realty Board at its meeting at the C. and C. cafeteria, Wednesday noon.

The wording of this resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, the business of dealing in real estate is of great magnitude and of vital importance to the development of the state of California, and

"Whereas, real property in the state represents by far the greater portion of the wealth and likewise bears the greater burden of taxation, and

"Whereas, in years past, through the activities of many unscrupulous operators and dealers, against whom there was no mandatory law regulating their conduct, great injury was done to the progress and good name of our fair state and this notwithstanding the fact that a majority of those engaged in the business were men whose dealing were beyond reproach, and

"Whereas, a number of the leading real estate brokers of the state both to remedy these conditions and after years of effort secured the enactment of a real estate license law and the establishment of a real estate department for the regulation of the real estate business, and

"Whereas, after three years of operation of this law the good results have been so universally recognized that we believe it is the opinion and judgment of every responsible real estate man in the state of California that no better investment can be made than to maintain this department in at least its present high state of efficiency, and

"Whereas, there is no one in the state of California better qualified to know what the needs of this department are better than the real estate commissioner, and his judgment and requests should be given fullest consideration in arranging for the support of this department, and

"Whereas, in our judgment it is the unanimous opinion of all real estate men that the budget allowance for this department as recommended by Governor Richardson is entirely inadequate to maintain the department in anything like its present state of efficiency, and

"Whereas, as an evidence of this budget allowance for this department, as submitted to the legislature by Governor Richardson, is $74,480 per year, while this department expended $136,899.30 per year for the last two years, showing a reduction per year of $62,409.30. The estimated income from license fees for the next two years is $227,500 per year, and

"Whereas, since this law is a realtor's law promoted by the real estate men themselves for the express purpose of regulating the business in which they are engaged, and since the entire financial burden is borne by them so that not a dollar's expense is added to a single taxpayer in the state, we feel there can, therefore, be no just and valid reason for allowing any other purpose or plan to cripple the work of this department. Now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that we, the board of directors of the Pasadena Realty Board, in regular meeting assembled, request Governor Richardson to reconsider the budget allowance recommended for the support of the real estate department and make such an allowance as will, in the judgment of the real estate commissioner, be ample for the proper handling of the work of this department."

FRENCH SOLDIERS KILLED

BERLIN, March 17.—A report from Friemersheim, a Rhine town near Duisburg, says that 40 soldiers were killed and many injured when a French troop train collided with a freight. The impact was so violent that several coaches were telescoped.

H. L. LEAVITT

Director General of Exposition

H. L. Leavitt, director general Glendale Industrial Exposition, promises one of the greatest aggregations of shows and exhibits in the history of California, that the shows will all be clean, refined and moral. Mr. Leavitt is one of the oldest show men on the Pacific coast and has visited every exposition throughout the world. He will give away a watch every evening to one lady and one gentleman who draw the lucky numbers with an admission ticket, and a Maxwell sport touring car will be given away on the last evening of this gorgeous show.

When a man meets a woman acquaintance on the street he should be polite enough to stop and listen.

LATEST PINK MAKES SENSATION

Seed of the famous Allwood pinks is on sale by dealers this year for the first time, and American gardeners will have an opportunity to become acquainted with this plant, which has been a sensation among English gardeners for some time. Previously plants of four varieties of named Allwood pinks were offered here.

The Allwood pink is a hybrid between the carnation and the common garden pink. Its principal advantages are that it provides our gardeners with a new hardy plant, perpetually flowering and with the delightful clove scent of the carnation, and much of its beauty of form and flower. In color it resembles the better varieties of the grass pink, Dianthus plumarius, but with much better substance and size.

The seedlings will produce a certain per cent of single flowers, not more than 75 per cent coming double. However, the single pinks are beautiful and well deserving of a place in the garden. The new pink is said to be not only a perpetual bloomer, but to produce more flowers per plant than its carnation parents. However, it is not as floriferous as the garden pinks, which bloom themselves out, if not carefully cultivated. Many of the flowers show the dark zoning of the annual and grass pinks, which are such an attractive feature of these races.

The hardy garden carnations are not as hardy as they might be by any manner of means, and if the new race lives up to its advance praises it will be a welcome addition to gardens. Previously the clove scented pinks available for garden use were the plumarius section and the Grenadin carnations, but the latter always needs protection to be certain of wintering in the northern and central states.

Allwood Brothers of England, who introduced the new pink, have been taking many prizes in the British flower shows, and already have made great improvement in the original Allwood pinks.

QUAKE SHAKES

BELGRADE, March 17.—The earthquake felt in several cities in Southeastern Europe on Thursday caused considerable damage along the Dalmatian coast, especially at Ragusa and Cattaro. The Catholic Cathedral and other buildings at Sarajevo suffered while a tobacco factory at Mostar was so badly damaged that it was unable to operate. So far as is known there were no casualties.

Many a slow-going man would be willing to rush the growler.

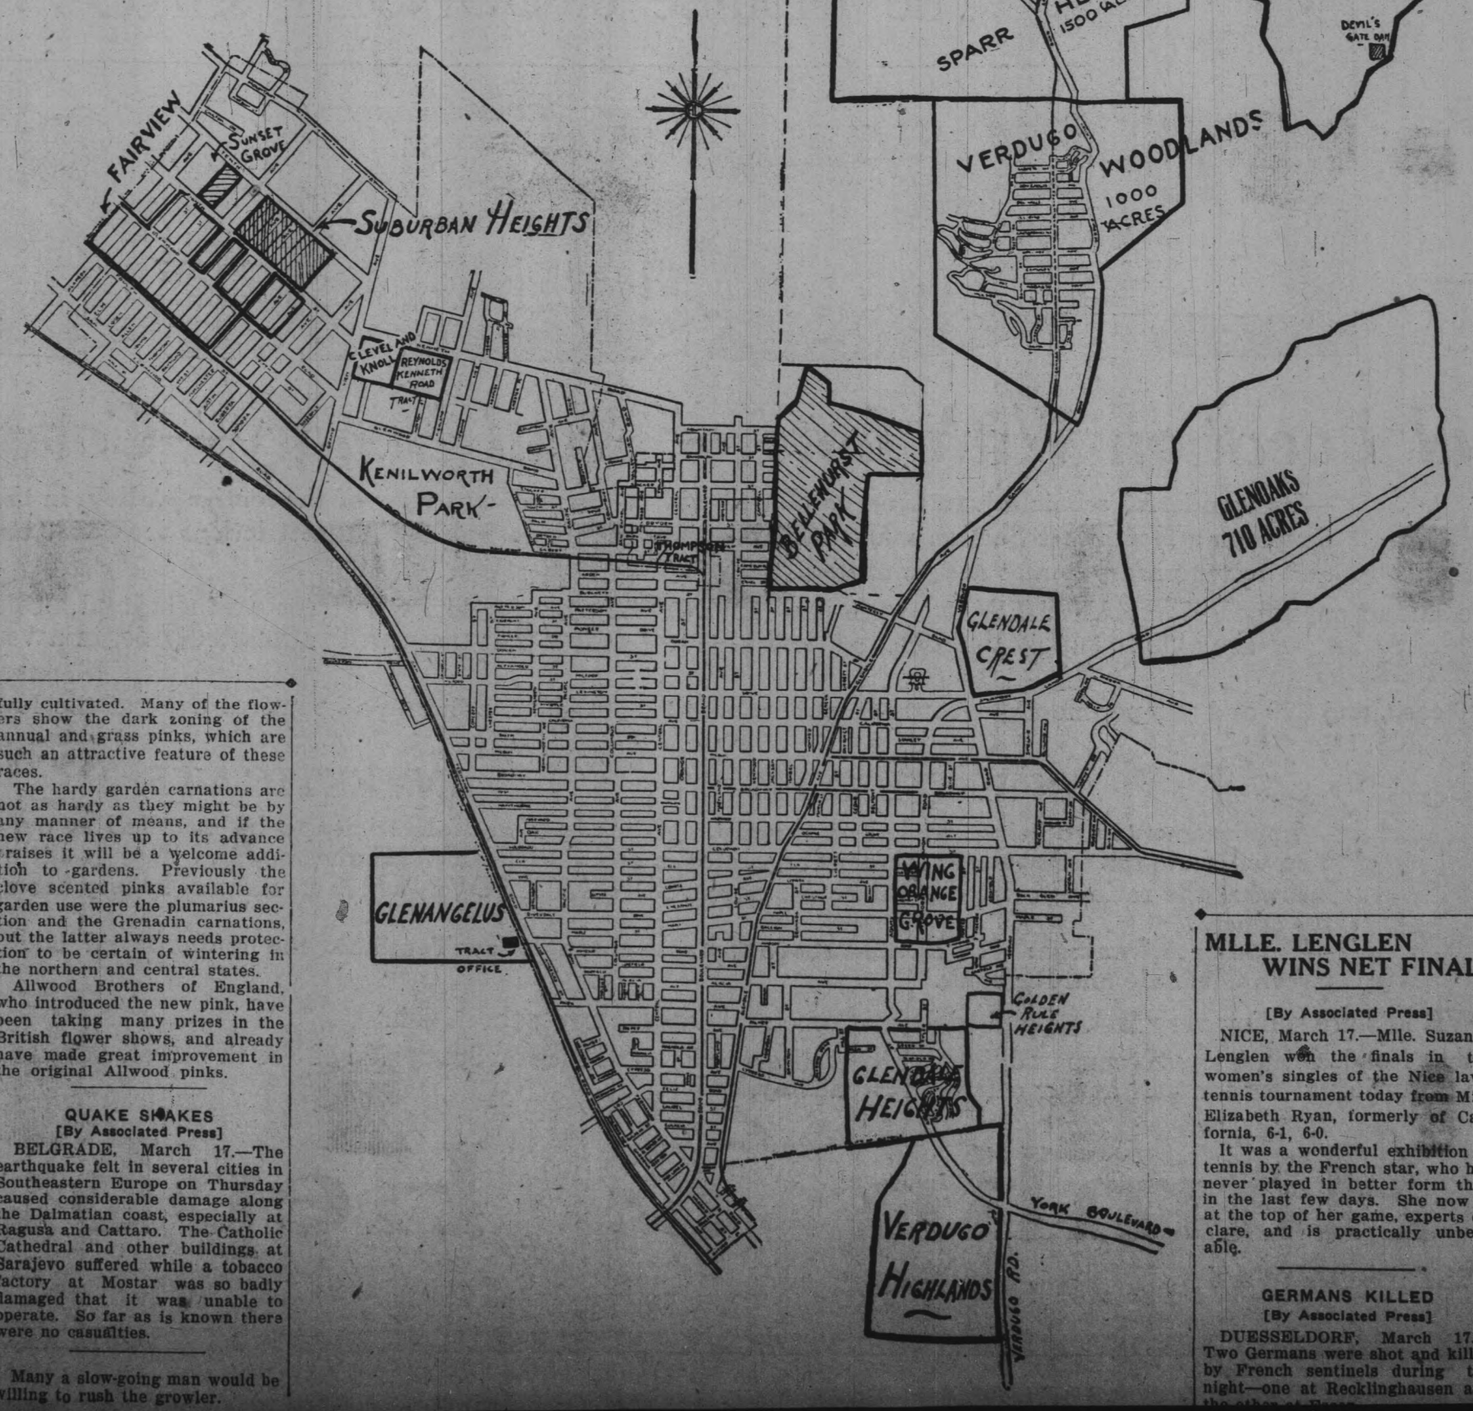
FRENCH REFUSE PARLEY

[By Associated Press]

PARIS, March 17.—Premier Poincare will entertain no propositions for negotiations with Germany until that government makes it known directly and officially to France that she wants to negotiate, it was declared today in French official circles.

Any attempt by a third power to intervene or provoke discussion of the terms under which a settlement might be reached with Germany, it was added, will be regarded by France as an unfriendly act.



THIS WONDER TRACT, 'NEAREST THE HEART OF GLENDALE,' IS NOW AVAILABLE TO LOCAL RESIDENTS

This Tract, Resting at the Foot of the Griffith Park Hills, Has Numerous Charms That Are Strictly All Its Own

Of the thousands of tourists who are streaming eagerly and even frantically into Southern California, hundreds are hearing of Glendale and are journeying to this city with the hope of finding the homesites in this "promised land" that have been staked out for them. So much has been said about Glendale throughout the east that many of these easterners come here expecting great things—and not one of them has cause to go away disappointed.

Glendale has everything that the home lover desires and needs. It has that wonderful "suburban atmosphere" for which the world is seeking. The tendency is today is to get away from the crowded city and to locate on a piece of land where the big outdoors may be found—out where a man and woman and their little kiddies may breath to their heart's content of God's pure fresh air—out where one does not experience that "cramped" feeling, that so often is known in connection with the big city home. The general desire is to get away from commercialism and the hurried business life, and to settle down where contentment reigns and where peace and quiet are to be found.

Such a spot is Glen Angeles Park. The All-Powerful hand intended that this wonderful tract should be peopled by the fellows who are seeking for the things that are good and real and true. It placed this tract so close to the leading city of California that the tired business man, after struggling throughout the day in the dense business swirl of the big Angel city may, as eventimé approaches, may seek out his own little country home and there feast to his heart's content on the pure fresh air that is so abundant and so free in Glendale and the wonderful homelife of this section, and may go to rest with a happy heart and a mind free of the cares and worries of the day.

Glen Angeles Park is a wonderful piece of property, and it holds possibilities that are seldom found Beside accessibility, this tract has a wonderful climate. It is so located that throughout the months of the summer it is kissed by cooling breezes, wafted to it from the cooling waters of the Los Angeles river, and the trees and foliage that border that stream on either side. While other sections are suffering more or less, the Glen Angeles Park locality is not affected by the heat. It has everything a strictly home tract should possess.

The tract is located at the intersection of Goodwin avenue and the San Fernando road, which is known the state over and is a portion of the inland route between Los Angeles and San Francisco. It is just five blocks from the Pacific Electric line. A through bus line runs "by the door," and it will be situated on the proposed local bus line, which, it is expected, will be established within a few weeks.

Scenic beauty is the "middle name" of this tract. Just as soon as a tourist lands in Los Angeles he hears of Griffith Park, the largest municipal park in the country. Glen Angeles Park is right at the door of this wonderful park. The hills of this park, which is 3,000 acres in extent, will loom up as sentinels before the residents of this beautiful home location.

Besides possessing a wonderful view of Griffith Park and the Sierra Madres to the north, the system of roadways that will be established on this property will also add beauty to the tract in general. There will be winding roadways, beautiful sidewalks and curbs, and everything in the way of street improvements. All will be substantial and up to the minute.

Appropriate restrictions will be in force in this tract. The building restrictions are reasonably high and those in connection with the business district will be in force for fifty years. This will protect those securing homesites in this tract.

A number of large projects that are proposed will greatly add to the values of the lots in this tract. Among these may be mentioned the following: The new Riverside Drive, which will be constructed along the riverside by the city of Los Angeles; the extension of Goodwin avenue, which runs the entire length of the tract, over the river to Riverside Drive; thus forming a new artery of travel to relieve traffic congestion on Los Feliz boulevard, and the extension of the yellow car line through Griffith Park.

The prices that are charged for lots in this tract constitute a great and pleasing surprise in connection with Glen Angeles Park. They are lower than are to be found in any of the subdivisions in this section. The prices for the home plots range from $850 to $1200, and the business property runs around $50 per front foot. The prices being charged for these lots include everything in the way of street improvements.

A novel contest is being conducted in connection with this tract, this being the giving away of a phonograph to the lucky visitor to the tract, regardless of whether or not he purchases property. To everyone visiting the tract a numbered ticket will be given, and to the person holding the lucky number the Victrola will be presented. The drawing will be held within a few days.

"If you want one of the prettiest homesites in California," said Vern S. Stires, who owns and is subdividing the property, "or if you want an investment that will bring a rich harvest of profits, don't fail to investigate Glen Angeles Park. Plans now being formulated will make values in this beautiful tract

HUGE BUILDING PROGRAM HAS OPENED

Five Homes Started—Five Others Next Week In Wing O. G. Tract

The $100,000 building program for the Wing Orange Grove tract started yesterday.

A. G. Smith, one of the owners of the tract, set the building ball arolling by beginning construction of five strictly modern homes. The actual cost of these dwellings will range between $4500 and $6000. Four of these structures will be stucco, with 10-year guarantee composition roof, while the fifth will be weatherboarded and will have shingle roof. All will contain six rooms.

These homes will be modern in every sense of the word, with hardwood floors, all kinds of built-in features—in fact, everything that goes to make a strictly modern home. They will have been completed inside of 60 days. The architectural work for these homes was done by the Bentley Lumber company, which firm is furnishing all of the material. L. L. Patch, an old-time contractor in this valley, is the building foreman.

F. W. Glass, formerly of Chicago, now living in Los Angeles, will, the early part of next week, begin the construction of five other homes on five lots purchased a short time ago in this tract. Mr. Glass believes this tract is without doubt the finest location for home purposes he has seen in Southern California. The homes to be erected by Mr. Glass will be stucco and will cost about $4500 each.

The sale of lots in this tract has been a "popcorn" procedure. From two to eight have been disposed of every day since the opening of the tract. This tract was placed on the market about a month ago and up to last night 91 out of 118 lots had been sold. This is a selling record that the subdividers of Glendale may shoot at.

When real estate agents buy lots in any tract it shows conclusively that the values are there. Eight of the lots of this tract were bought by E. G. Warren, real estate dealer of 300½ South Brand boulevard. In addition to buying these lots Mr. Warren sold five building sites to other parties.

Within another week the opportunity to secure lots in the Wing Orange Grove will have disappeared forever, so far as first sales are concerned.

"They're going like hot dogs," says Marvin Smith, selling agent for the tract.

Trying to please people is a matter of business with an office seeker.

UNEMPLOYMENT PEAK PASSED

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—The peak of unemployment throughout the Pacific coast has been passed, according to J. A. Kelly, San Francisco, district director of the employment service, United States department of labor, in his report for February, made public here today.

The building industry continues to flourish, the report says; iron and steel, lumber and shipbuilding are now fast approaching normal, while the opening of spring farm and orchard work has caused a noticeable reduction in the surplus of unskilled labor.

An abstract of Mr. Kelly's survey of conditions in California, Oregon and Washington follows:

"California—The opening of spring farm and orchard work has caused a slight reduction in the unskilled labor surplus. This demand, however, can be met by local labor markets. Many transients are moving throughout the state, seeking employment. The lumber industry is, for the most part, operating to capacity, and in some places over-time and night shifts are the rule. The building industry continues to flourish, especially in the larger cities. A shortage of plasterers, plumbers and finish carpenters is reported. There is a demand for moulders, pattern makers and machinists. Decided improvement is reported in the San Joaquin valley oil fields. Shipyards have added considerably to the number of their employes, but are operating chiefly on repair work.

"Oregon—Despite heavy rains and snow, lumber production is fast approaching normal. Calls for help are beginning to come from agricultural districts. Unemployment is confined chiefly to commercial and unskilled lines. Nearly all industries are operating. A large building program will follow the winter season.

"Washington—The peak of unemployment was reached in February. Indications point toward early absorption of all idle, except in commercial work. Building programs are being outlined in all the larger cities. March will again see operation of logging camps and inland mills. Car shortage is confined to a few localities only. Optimism prevails in every quarter."

AN EXCELLENT FOWL DRESSING

One cup of chopped onion, a tablespoonful of sage rubbed fine, half teaspoonful of basil, a half teaspoonful of marjoram, scant quarter teaspoonful of thyme, three cups of stale bread crumbs, two tablespoonfuls of butter. Melt the butter in a skillet or saucepan, place the onions and sweet herbs in the melted butter and set on the back of range or over a gas flame turned as low as possible and let them stand for one hour, keeping hot without cooking. This "sweats" the herbs and draws the flavor. Mix with the bread crumbs which have been previously moistened by steaming or with hot water. If desirable bind with a beaten egg before placing in bowl. Omit thyme if the flavor is not liked.

HOME NURSING

"When the children are ill I am simply at my wit's end," said the mother of three to the mother of five as they sat knitting before the fire.

"I used to be that way. It's very different now. I try not to take anything too seriously—even the measles, when Dorothy gets them," said the placid blonde woman in blue.

"I always have a suspicion that you are laughing at my helplessness," said the mother of three. "When Bennie get the croup or George cuts his finger I am a wreck. I never know what to do first—or last."

"Croup—that's different," said the mother of five. "Of course, I worry until I get the steam curling under the steam tent and a cold compress on the child's throat, and until I have a reasonable idea that he is becoming more comfortable. But as for measles, mumps, colds, sprains, frostbites, twisted ankles, and lacerated heads I am almost immune.

"The three things a mother should make up her mind to do when she has a family of children, it seems to me, is to keep cheerful, to keep steady, and to keep sane. All difficult things in their way, but not so difficult when one realizes that one must do all three to be a successful mother."

"If my children develop temperatures, I immediately begin to think of all the dreadful things that could hapen to them," confessed the mother of three. "When Billie had pneumonia I wept every time his temperature was above 103, and you can imagine that I was a sight. It was selfish of me, but at the time all I could think of was Billie—and, perhaps, not having him."

The placid mother nodded. "I've choked the feeling down under a mask of cheer," she admitted. "But when a child has pneumonia you know that he must run a temperature, that there is a definite course of disease to be run, and that one simply has to face it and hope for the best.

"Otherwise children's temperatures are not as alarming as those of grown-ups. A child's normal temperature is anywhere from 99 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. An adult's normal temperature is about 98.6. Therefore, a high temperature in a child is less alarming than an equally high one in an adult.

"Then a child's pulse rate may seem fast to you if you are thinking of a normal pulse rate as 60 or 70 beats to the minute. This is true of an adult. But a baby's normal pulse rate may vary up to seven years from 70 to 120 beats to the minute.

"A woman has a faster pulse beat than a man.

"An older person has a slower pulse because of the declining strength of the heart.

"And it is always well to remember that any excitement or exercise will increase a pulse rate. Therefore, never take your child's pulse or temperature after a fit of crying and expect it to be accurate. Always wait until the child is resting."

"If I only had your assurance," breathed the younger mother.

"It's not assurance. It's something I've cultivated. I think I would call it mother lore," said the other softly. "Mothers have to be brave for the whole family, you know," she added with an understanding smile.

BISHOP MANNING URGES FIGHT ON DIVORCE

Declares Legalized Free Love Is Imperiling the Nation

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, March 17.—Calling upon all religious organizations—Catholic, Protestant and Jewish—to unite for concerted action against easy divorce, Bishop William T. Manning of the Episcopal Church, yesterday declared that the system of monagomous marriage was rapidly being abandoned in the United States and that the nation had almost reached a condition of legalized free love.

His remarks were part of a Lenten sermon, "The Present Crisis with Regard to Marriage in the Home."

"To allow men and women to live together for a time and then with legal sanction on trivial and frivolous grounds to separate and form new alliances as they please," he said, "is in principal to abolish marriage and to adopt a system of legalized free love. This is the system which we have now almost reached.

"The proportion of divorces to marriage is appalling. In our country as a whole there is one divorce for every eight marriages, and in some of our states there is one divorce for every two or three marriages."

He declared that the influence of religion against divorce and remarriage is weakened by various standards of different churches and "in consequence of different ministers of the same church."

"Those whom one church refuses to marry immediately go to another and are married without question," he added. "Think what the effect would be if the whole united influence of religion should be exerted in this common cause."

After Mr. Smith had raked his yard he took the accumulated rubbish into the road to burn. A number of neighbors' children came flocking about the bonfire, among them a little girl whom Mr. Smith did not remember having seen before. Wishing, with his usual kindliness, to make the stranger feel at ease, he beamed upon her and said, heartily: "Hello! Isn't this a new face?" A deep red suffused her freckles. "No," she stammered, "it ain't new. It's just been washed."

Learning from the experience of others is like getting money in a letter.

What fierce, undying love men and women have for each other—on the screen.

PUBLIC PARK WILL FEATURE BENMAR HILLS TRACT

A public auto park as a solution for the problem of congested traffic is one of the many original features characterizing the plans for developing a model American city in Benmar Hills, Burbank.

The city of Burbank has recognized this project by several official acts, including the acceptance of deeds to a large area for a public auto park.

The plan, as a whole, contemplates the expansion of Burbank into a city of more than 100,000 people. To take care of this expansion, Benmar Hills has been most carefully laid out by engineers and landscape architects. A section has been segregated as the commercial district and it will be here that the auto park will be located.

This will give it the advantage of immediate availability for business men and for shoppers and thus eliminate, to a large extent, the disadvantages of parking alongside curbs and congesting thoroughfares. The park will also provide safety for cars when not in use.

Other features of Burbank, "The City Beautiful," when its present plans are realized, will be such great community advantages as extensive public parks, athletic fields, children's playgrounds, a model civic center and an aircraft landing station. Practically all the land for these purposes has already been deeded to the city of Burbank.

The city has just recently bonded itself for $40,000 for the development of a mountain lake in the Verdugo Hills to the north. It will be situated in a tract of 130 acres already reserved for a foothill park for "The City Beautiful."

The speaker was telling his audience how his life had been influenced by total abstinence.

"You know," said he, "I am now chief of my department. Three years ago there were two men in the office who held positions superior to mine.

"One was dismissed through drunkenness. The other was led into crime. He is now serving a long term of imprisonment, and all through the influence of strong drink.

"Now what, I ask," he cried, growing eloquent—"what has raised me to my present high position?"

"Drink!" was the vociferous but unexpected reply he received from a member of the audience.

$1000 IN GOLD TO BE GIVEN AWAY

Subdividers of Verdugo Gardens to Present Purchasers With Prizes

One of the most astounding offers ever made is the announcement of the giving away of one thousand dollars in gold to purchasers of lots in Verdugo Gardens, a beautiful new subdivision near the center of the business district of the city of Burbank. Only eighteen lots are being offered and every one is large, giving the home and garden or chicken yards.

"I believe that we offer the best subdivision at the lowest prices in the San Fernando valley," said K. K. Thompson, agent for the property. "It is conveniently located, just one mile from the business center of Burbank and offers all the advantages of town lots and the double advantage of being away from the noise of the city. Every lot is large and some of them face on two wide streets. This will give purchasers a chance to subdivide their lots into four lots and will treble the amount of their investment."

Stable manure is growing scarcer and scarcer, and more and more expensive. Save your leaves and vegetable refuse for a compost heap this spring. This compost with commercial fertilizers has to take the place of stable manure.

Bone meal is good fertilizer for everything. Always have some of it handy.

Buy enough seeds for the first time so you won't need to wait when you are ready to plant. Get staples by the ounce and half ounce.

Did you know that tomatoes have two kinds of leaves? One is fine cut, the other is "potato" leaved. The potato leaved kind is hardier than the other kind, and stands dry weather better.

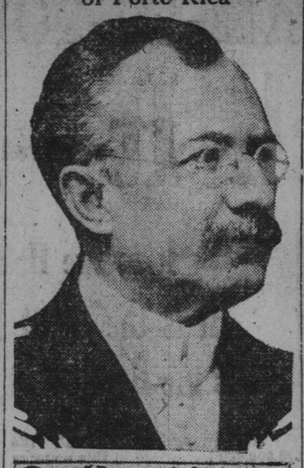
Iowa Man Governor of Porto Rica



Representative Horace A. Towner, of Iowa, has been nominated by President Harding to be governor of Porta Rico.

HERBS FOR THE HOME GARDEN

With the development of American courses in domestic science, the use of herbs for flavoring soups, meats and stews, as well as for sauces and dressings, has become more general. Often it is difficult to get the herbs at the grocery, or if they are procurable, they are old and flavorless.

So every garden should have its herbs. One row on the edge of the garden would be sufficient, as only a few plants of each is required to give a supply, and they are all readily raised. The most useful are sage, marjoram, basil and thyme. All may be raised from seed.

A few plants of spearmint for mint sauces, summer savory, dill for pickles, caraway for rye bread and cookies, parsley for flavor and decoration will give a fairly complete herb garden.

Tarragon, plants of which should be purchased, is used to steep in vinegar for use in salad dressings and in some dishes where its pungent flavor is desirable. It should be borne in mind, however, that tarragon grown in America has a stronger and more pungent flavor than that abroad, and will give a ranker vinegar than the imported varieties, so it should be used sparingly.

All herbs delight in a rich, mellow soil, and none need to be started before the ground can be worked. In most of them the dried foliage is used for flavoring. They should be cut on a dry day just before they come into full blossom, tied in bunches or laid out on papers to dry quickly. They may be hung up in a convenient place, but the flavor is best preserved by rubbing them fine when dry and sealing them in perfectly dry cans. Empty baking powder boxes are excellent receptacles. Half a dozen sage plants will be the largest quantity required of any one of these plants. Several pickings of the leaves may be made or the entire plant cut just before blooming time.

BUILDING WORK IN SPARR HEIGHTS UNDER WAY

Building operations are getting into full swing at Sparr Heights, the great 1500-acre residential tract in the Verdugo valley to the northeast of Glendale. Already nearly a dozen artistic homes have been completed in the bungalow district, and constructive work will soon begin on a large public garage and several stores.

Owing to the advantageous location of Sparr Heights, lying in the very neck of the funnel which drains the territory bounded by the Sierra Madre range, the Verdugo and San Rafael hills, there must inevitably develop at this point a great community of homes as well as a business section designed to minister to its domestic and economic needs.

The handsome $25,000 Community Center building donated by William S. Sparr and the Francis Barnum Walters Company, the Greek theater and the Oakwood Country Club, with its mammoth swimming pool and splendid 18-hole golf course, will furnish centers for social diversion.

The club house will be located in the very heart of the tract and surrounded by artistic homes that will have as a foreground the beautiful green of the golf course. This course will occupy the bottom of the bowl formed by the mountain chains and will be practically the only course in the United States absolutely encircled by and visible to all the homes in the district.

To those who love the trail for hiking or horseback riding the numerous bridle paths which climb the surrounding ridges will be available, while the close proximity of the Tujunga canyon and the Arroyo Seco afford an opportunity for camping and sport with the rod and reel.

LARGE RESERVOIR FOR ALTA CANYADA

The contract for a 1,500,000-gallon reservoir at Alta-Canyada was awarded to Clarence P. Day of Pasadena by the Alta-Canyada Corporation this week.

This immense reservoir is in addition to three smaller reservoirs now on these beautiful estates and will conserve part of the water which now flows to waste in Alta-Canyada's beautiful canyon.

The new reservoir will be pear shaped to conform to the contour of the plateau upon which it is situated and will be beautified to present the appearance of a natural lake.

The preliminary plans for a majestic hotel called Casa Canyada are now being shown by courtesy of the Hellman Bank in their windows at Sixth and Main streets.

The sales have far exceeded the wildest expectations of the corporation handling this ultra superb subdivision, according to Mr. Downs.

'HOME FYNDER' FINDS NEW NAME FOR SELF

Dutton, the Homefynder, which in short means N. L. Dutton, is now comfortably located at his new place of business at 308-10 South Brand boulevard. The new home of this prominent real estate broker is one of the largest and best real estate offices in Glendale and when the contemplated improvements have been made it will be second to no office in this city. This office has 37½ feet frontage on Brand and is just south of Colorado on the east side of the street.

Mr. Dutton has been handling real estate in Glendale for the past two years, during which time he has been located at the corner of Glendale and Colorado. He is familiar with the values of property all over Glendale. The Glendale avenue office will be continued.

Besides taking on this additional office Mr. Dutton is enlarging the scope of his business. A building department is being added, a part of the work of which will be the financing of homes and business blocks. Insurance of all kinds is handled by this firm and a general real estate business is conducted. J. C. Filson, an experienced contractor and builder, is in charge of the building department. Miss Edith Unwin, who is now visiting relatives and friends in the east, will have charge of the office force. An office will be established by this firm in Pasadena at once.

In the Glendale organization of this firm, when completed, there will be between 40 and 50 workers. These will work out of the two offices in this city.

The January business of this firm was the largest experienced up to that time ever. February sales were larger than January and March, thus far, has been a record breaker.

This firm conducts a free information bureau with regard to prices of Glendale real estate, and will be glad to assist anyone wishing to learn more about local realty before buying.

Timely Tips for the Home Gardener

Celery cabbage, or Pe Tsai, doesn't smell like cabbage when it is cooked. The reason is easy; it isn't cabbage, but a mustard. If you haven't grown Pe Tsai or Wong Bok, you have missed something. Nothing better for a fall salad, as delicate as lettuce and better flavored, and it always heads, if you try. It is best eaten raw, but very good when cooked.

The government has come to the rescue of asparagus growers with a rustproof "grass." If you are starting an asparagus patch try the new Washington variety. It has the government O. K. for flavor, size and growth.

Put this in your note book: If mature heads of cabbage start to split this summer pull them enough to loosen the roots in the soil without breaking them.

GLENDALE FIRM DOES GOOD WORK

The Pacific Cabinet and Fixture Company is one of the busiest places in Glendale. At every hour throughout the day the planer, the saw and the sander can be heard at 819 West Milford, where some of the finest fixtures ever seen in Glendale are being turned out.

It is not the easiest thing in the world to turn out good and satisfactory store fixtures. Many endeavor to do so, but all do not succeed. This company does.

The prices charged at this mill, also, are worthy of mention. They are as low as good work will permit. The slogan of this firm is "Exactness; Expertness; Efficiency."

As referennces as to the class of work turned out, this firm mentions the following: Glendale Savings Bank, Brand Department Store, Monarch Supply Company, Glendale Pharmacy and Shafe's Book Store.

KEEPING THE DRAIN PIPE CLEAN

Place some dry lye at the opening of the drain pipe and pour boiling water over it. It will cut all the grease and remove any odors.

Somebody said, somewhere, and he said a mouthful, "It's Hell to be Poor." There are 125,000,000 live wires in this country working every minute, and a bunch of them working somebody, all for the Dollar. Some country preacher back in New Hampshire said, "Money is the Root of All Evil." Say, kind friends, there are 835,000 human beings in the big town hunting for the Root. Everybody wants to get rich, tomorrow, and those who don't try should have their heads examined. There are more auto busses in Los Angeles than you will find in New York and Chicago, but, believe us, after the Free Ride and the Barbecue, with the golden sunshine injected into them, they are all rich waiting for the monthly dividends. But, Dear Sister and Brother, wait until you come to the crossroads. Nobody will ever know it. But you

There are 500,000 people in this city living in rented houses or rooms. Every month rents going higher and higher. You grunt and kick and holler. But you stand for it, because you lack the courage and confidence to do things. There are 100,000 people today living in tents, garages, and two and three-room shacks, who will not pay rent. What do they do? They take $25, the advance rent, and go out in the suburbs and buy a lot or plot, get their contract and agree to pay $10 to $25 monthly. The money left over from the monthly payments buys a little lumber each month, and in six months they have paid $100 and have the four walls and a roof to shelter them, and all paid for. The lot has increased $100 to $250 and they have the habit to save. Answer, Are we right?

There are 100,000 wage-earners in Los Angeles who get good wages, and live up to every dollar they make. Some of them are the "wisest guys that some down the pike." They talk of Los Angeles, they tell you what they could have done 10 years ago, and what it will sell for now. They are Boosters, but not Investors. They have been waiting for the man who has something cheap and can sell it easy.

BIG PURCHASE BY SUBDIVISION REALTY

The Subdivision Realty Company, which specializes in subdivisions all over the state, in January purchased the 110 acres on Lankershim boulevard near Lankershim, known as the Irvine ranch, for $110,000. The land was put on the market and in thirty days the entire tract, representing 460 parcels, was sold.

This company has now purchased the adjoining tract which fronts on Van Owens boulevard, from E. W. Osborn, 50 acres for $50,000. Graders and surveyors are already at work on the tract, which has been subdivided into 240 parcels.

The sale of this property opens Sunday, March 18. It will be a low-priced proposition, on very easy terms, the lots ranging in price from $390 to $590, $10 down and $10 per month. The sales manager, Mr. Moffitt, states that the easy terms attract the attention of the average rent payer, who feels that with his next rent check he will be able to pay the down poyment on a lot and buy lumber also for a small home.

The tract is within the city limits of Los Angeles, and city water and lights are obtainable. It is remarkable to see the development taking place in and around Lankershim, where a few years ago there were about a dozen stores and a few thousand people. It is safe to say that now there are 5000 people within the territory limits of Lankershim, and at least 50 stores. Along the North Lankershim boulevard more than 100 new homes have been erected by working people.

The Subdivision Realty Company with the placing of this new tract on the market next Sunday will have developed more than 160 acres of land, which represents nearly 800 parcels. This means within a year, judging from present rate of building, more than 250 homes will be erected and 1500 people added to the population of this district. Seventy-five per cent of the buyers are actual rent payers who want to get out in the open to plant gardens, fruit trees, and supplies for their tables. They want to get away from the rent-paying habit.

The subdivision of this 50 acres, which will be known as Van Owens Gardens, will bring many people to this territory in the next week or ten days, and, due to the proximity of the Southern Pacific station, Hewitt, and the convenience of city water and light, it will undoubtedly be disposed of as quickly as the 110-acre tract which the Subdivision Realty Company sold out in 30 days.

CROWDING PLANTS IS GREATEST FAULT

Overcrowding, perhaps, is the greatest fault of the average garden. Because the plants are small when they first appear above ground, he will not space them properly, because they look lonesome with an expanse of bare soil between them. However, they will grow fast, and at maturity will use all the space allowed them, and usually are growing into and over each other.

This fault should be corrected when the transplanting is done, or if the seeds are sown in open ground, by judicious thinning. Follow directions, which are always contained on seed packets as to proper distances, to the letter. Work with a tape measure or a yardstick. The crop of many vegetables will be in proportion to the chance they have to develop. The bush lima bean is an excellent object lesson. Many gardeners have given up the bush lima bean as not being productive enough to justify its space. But give the individual bushes 18 inches apart, so that they will have a chance, and there will be a bountiful crop with ordinarily good soil and moisture conditions.

The rule to follow in transplanting seedlings is to move them as soon as the leaves touch. The first transplanting should be done when the fair pair of true leaves appear. If they are not placed at sufficient distance, and often it is not convenient to do so at this time, because of lack of space indoors or in the hotbed, be prepared to move them when the developing leaves touch. If you do not, they will begin to spindle in the struggle to reach the sunlight.

The percentage of loss is greater as the plants attain size, but early transplantings go a long way to obviate this loss by developing strong fibrous root systems, especially in the case of plants which, undisturbed, form tap roots, or a long root that goes straight down some distance before giving off branches. When this long root has developed the first pair of true leaves appear, the plant receives a severe check in being transplanted, from which it takes a long time to recover.

Elsie, aged six, returned unusually early from school the other day. She rang the door bell. There was no answer, so she rang again, a little longer. Still there was no response. A third time she pressed the button, long and hard. Nobody came to the door and she pressed her nose against the windowpane and in a shrill voice, which caught the ears of all the neighbors, called: "It's all right, mamma; I'm not the installment man!"

COLORFUL ITALIAN POTTERY

Subdued in tone but extremely colorful is Italian pottery, the price of which is very reasonable for anything so lovely and decorative.

VISTA DEL MUNDO IS LATEST HOME SPOT

W. H. Rees Co., 612 Union Bank Bldg., Los Angeles, is marketing a small subdivision of homesites on Grand View avenue. This is an ideal home spot, the property being covered with many large and full grown orange, lemon, grapefruit and other trees, giving ideal shade for home builders at all times.

It is intended to fully improve this property (in fact contractors have already started work on these improvements) with water, gas, sidewalks, curbs, oiled and graveled roads, at the present time. Grand View boulevard and Glenwood road are macadamized and electrically lighted. Fire protection, schools, stores, etc., are within easy distance.

Several buyers of lots at "Vista Del Mundo" have already signified their intentions of starting early construction of home buildings, claiming that after investigation they were unable to find a more suitable spot.

The whole Glendale territory is of the finest and among the best in the state, but there are some parts better than other—Vista Del Mundo is one of the better kind. Located in the foothills, adjoining, are some very fine homes of California's prominent citizens. The section has been highly improved, its nearness to Los Angeles (less than 40 minutes by auto or street car); a few minutes' ride from shopping districts of Glendale—all these facilities tend to create an atmosphere of contentment.

The nearness of Vista Del Mundo to the Pacific Electric car line, just three blocks from car stop, service every 20 minutes to Glendale or Los Angeles, cheap transportation by monthly commutation, this enables a person to do business in either city and yet get home in from 15 to 40 minutes, according to the point of his business destination.

We are informed that reservations have been placed upon several of these homesites; some have already been sold outright during the past few days (there are only 40 left). The tract was small in the first place—one of those ideal spots among the orange trees, and it is anticipated that the entire tract will be sold out within a short time, as prices have been greatly reduced to effect a quick clearance.

EARLY START FOR SWEET PEAS NEEDED

Sweet peas must be sown just as early as you can, if there is to be any certainty of a bountiful supply of their fascinatingly beautiful and fragrant blooms. In the middle west it is now customary to put the seed in the ground on St. Patrick's day, if the soil can be worked, planting deeply in a trench which is then manured or mulched until the seeds begin to germinate, and filled in as the plants grow.

WRONG WAY TO PLANT SWEET PEAS IN CLUMPS.
SWEET PEA PLANT READY TO TRANSPLANT OUTDOORS.
PROPER METHOD OF PLANTING SWEET PEAS IN CLUMPS.

The one great secret of sweet pea growing is to provide a cool root run, and deep planting of the roots is necessary to give this condition. Of course, the richest and mellowest of soil is also essential. Sweet peas are such obliging annuals, giving a fair show of bloom often under adverse conditions, that they are seldom seen grown at their best, which means six-foot vines.

Nitrogen culture is now sold with which to inoculate the sweet pea seeds. This assists greatly in developing an early and vigorous growth. Too thick planting is the great fault with most growers. The use of individual paper pots to start the plants growing will go a long way to get away from this trouble, as with the seedlings six inches or more in height before they are set into the ground it becomes impossible to crowd them into the soil, as is almost invariably done when sown where they are to bloom. Expert sweet pea growers say that six inches apart is the minimum distance.

When started in individual pots a supply of sticks or twigs must be ready to give them for support, or the plants will become a mass impossible of separation when it comes time to place them in the open ground. The seedlings must be given a cool situation in the house.

A kindly old soul asked the seven children of an acquaintance to tea. The youngsters' ages ranged from three years to fourteen. As they streamed into her parlor, her brain reeled, and their Christian names failed her.

"And which one are you, dear?" she asked a solemn boy of seven, helplessly.

"Me?" said he, importantly, "I'm the one with the spectacles."

Announcing the Opening of GLEN ANGELES PARK

In the Path of the Fastest Growing City in the World

If you want one of the prettiest homesites in California or an investment that will bring a rich harvest of profits, don't fail to investigate Glen Angeles Park. Plans now being formulated will make values in this beautiful tract go up by leaps and bounds. Every dollar invested here should return from three to five within twelve months. Our salesmen will tell you why! Act now while the finest lots in the tract are available!

Close-in Location

Glen Angeles Park is on the heavily traveled San Fernando Boulevard at Goodwin Avenue. It is just five blocks from the Pacific Electric line and is nearer to the center of Glendale than any other subdivision. Frequent bus service is available right at the tract.

Scenic Beauty

Glen Angeles Park borders on the beautiful 3000-acre Griffith Park, on which, it is said, $1,000,000 will be spent in improvements. It has a glorious view of the mountains and the tract is laid out with artistic winding streets which greatly enhance its beauty.

Income from Grapes

Many of the lots in Glen Angeles Park are covered with full bearing grape vines. These will assure the owners a plentiful supply of grapes and a good substantial income which will help materially in paying for the lots.

This New Victrola FREE

This brand new console model Victoria will be presented to some lucky visitor at Glen Angeles Park absolutely free. Everyone will have an equal chance to win whether interested in lots or not. All you need to do is to come to the tract and register.

This machine is on display in window of Glendale Music Co., 109 North Brand.

Plans for Future

Among the many projects now under way or planned, which will increase values in Glen Angeles Park are: The New Riverside Drive, which will run right through the tract; the extension of Goodwin avenue from the San Fernando Blvd. to Riverside Drive, thus forming a new artery of travel to relieve traffic congestions on Los Feliz Blvd.; the extension of the yellow car line through Griffith Park.

Restrictions

Reasonable restrictions will guard property values in Glen Angeles Park. The area of business property is strictly limited and the restrictions will be in force for fifty years.

Lowest Prices

Prices in Glen Angeles Park are only about one-half as high as surrounding property. Large residence lots are priced as low as $850 and range upwards to $12,000. Business property at $50 a front foot is the best buy in the Glendale district.
Surface streets, side walks, curbs, gas and electricity included.

SO. CALIF. EDISON BOOSTS FOR THE SOUTHWEST

That the abundant supply of electricity generated from the waters of the mountain streams in Southern and Central California, and sold at low rates, is impelling eastern manufacturers to locate within the territory served by the Southern California Edison company, and is also bringing such an enormous volume of inquiries from other concerns as to indicate great growth in population in community wealth, is the dominating feature of the annual report of the company, presented at the meeting of stockholders at the general offices in Los Angeles on Wednesday. Branch plants have been installed by many concerns to serve the increasing population, and there is every reason to expect a large increase in the industrial load during 1923. The company now has over 50,000 stockholders, many of whom reside in Glendale. District Manager H. B. Fletcher, with others who attended the meeting, has been provided with an advance copy of the report which contains many features of interest to this community, among which are: The gross earnings of the company for the year were $16,982,225.75 and, after the payment of operating expenses, depreciation and interest on bonds, the balance remaining was $4,465,577.19. Dividends paid during the year amounted to $3,706,579.49, distributed to 48,107 individual stockholders owning the company's total capital stock of $52,847,000.

An interesting chart is contained in the report, showing the growth of the company's business, and which reflects the general prosperity of Southern California and the San Joquain valley in which territory the company's operations are carried on, relating that the gross earnings increased over a period of twelve years from $3,800,000 in 1910 to $16,982,000 in 1922.

From a total investment in 1909 of $23,000,000 the demand for electric light and power service for residential, agricultural, industrial and railway service has necessitated rapidly increasing investment in water power plants and distributing properties from year to year to a total of $152,000,000 at the close of the year 1922.

During the year the company's sales of stock resulted in an increase of 21,752 stockholders, nearly all of whom are residents of territory served by the company and consumers of its electric product.

The capital expenditures for the year were $24,129,653.00 and consisted of work on new water power plants, transmission lines, substations and distributing systems. The budget of such new construction expenditures for the year 1923 calls for an even large expenditure, the total being $26,000,000. The 1923 expenditures make provision for the completion of new water power plants on the Big Creek-San Joaquin project of 122,000 horsepower capacity, increasing the company's total generating capacity to 501,000 horsepower.

The outlook for new business in 1923 is particularly bright. The commercial department of the company has inaugurated a carefully prepared plan of campaign for the addition of 100,000 horsepower of new business for the year, to be comprised of 56,000 horsepower for industrial and agricultural purposes, 29,000 horsepower for domestic and commercial lighting and 15,000 horsepower for cooking and heating purposes.

President John B. Miller during year completed his twenty-fifth year of service with the company and in his annual report commends the loyalty, efficiency and enthusiasm of the personnel of the organization.

In a poor parish in the east end of London a suffragan bishop promised to address the women at a mother's meeting, and to make it easier for them to attend the lady church workers arranged to mind their babies in another room.

Of course, it rained and the ladies thought their work would be greatly minimized; indeed, they very much doubted whether any babies would be brought to them at all.

To their great surprise a loud knock was heard and a small child stumbled in carrying a very fat baby. She looked nervous for a moment and then lisped:

"Please, ladies, will you tell the suffering bishop mother is very sorry it is too wet for her to go to the meeting, but she has sent the baby, and I will come for him later."

When a man has had occasion to employ a first-class lawyer you can't convince him that talk is cheap.

UNCLE JOE CANNON WEARS CAMPAIGN HAT OF 48 YEARS AGO AS HE RETIRES FROM CONGRESS

When the sixty-seventh congress closed, Uncle Joe Cannon went back to Danville, Ill., holding the record of having served for the longest period in the house of representatives of any legislator in the country. He is shown here wearing his old campaign "topper," the same hat he wore when he first went to congress, and carrying the same cane he carried then. This picturesque character is bidding good-by to Congresswoman Huck, also of Illinois.

ON CERTAIN TABOOS

By JOHN BRECK

It is a matter of horror to the standpatters that this iconoclastic generation has set about smashing taboos. And who's to blame? The scientists, that's who. They have flung on the intellectual rubbish pile such moth-eaten lore as that fever patients must not be allowed to drink; that raw fruit was fatal to children, and that tomatoes, cucumbers and fresh bread were three of the deadly sins of diet at any age; that walking too young made babies bow-legged; that dirt is healthy for pigs and children; that centipedes are dangerous, and the like.

We don't smash all of them, at that. A whole lot of them are more sacred than they were a generation or two ago, when we were still in the process of being either convinced or killed off by them. For education by elimination has always been the leit-motif of progress. Before the dawn of history old Mom Nature was pointing out to us what worked and what didn't. Those who were reasonable enough to take her hint survived; the slow-witted either hadn't time for a second thought, or started on the painful process of attaining some of those immunities which have been of such inestimable value to us. In plain English, they came so darn near dying they never were quite the same again—they nor their children, after them. Their bodies became more or less germ-shy, if their wits didn't—a sort of rough and ready pre-vaccination method.

Furthermore, for every taboo we destroy we set up a new one. Things that were merely a matter of prejudice to our "sturdy forebears" are now cults in good standing. Our organized crusade against vermin would be beyond their comprehension. Take rats, for instance. Our grandmothers took them as a matter of course. They considered the Pied Piper pure myth. They couldn't have imagined any level-headed American city spending the taxpayers' money in an effort to emulate Hamelin town. They felt the mosquito as an irritating pest which rather spoiled the poetry of a courtship in the honeysuckle bower. But they would have poohpoohed the notion of trying to establish a mosquito deadline anywhere, much less of actually eliminating him from his stronghold in the tropical Canal Zone. Armed as he was with his malaria and yellow fever germs, he'd do the eliminating, we found, unless we beat him to it. The fly is about the last of our erstwhile household pets and public opinion is against him.

Of course, a new taboo, like anything else, may become the rage for a time and then go completely out of fashion. Some are of the same cut as those we have already discarded; others won't fit another generation. Even science cannot guarantee their wearing qualities. In spite of all we know, trial by survival—our own survival—is still the ultimate test. And unless we some day surprise the last of her secrets out of her, old Mom Nature is the lady who will always have the last word about that.

MEXICO IS NOW READY FOR NEW ELECTION

[By Associated Press]

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—Assuming that Mexico will be without revolution during the next 22 months, a new president of the republic will be elected by popular vote in September 1924. But already there are political murmurings, possible candidates are being discussed, and at least one ambitious individual has announced his candidacy.

Party lines have never been tightly drawn in Mexico and political alliances are made and unmade overnight as the exigencies of the occasion demand. Therefore, it is difficult to say at present just what well defined groups will be in the field to contest for high national honors next year.

Among political observers it is considered an undoubted fact that President Obregon, Secretary of the Interior Calles, and Secretary of Treasury de la Huerta will stand as a unit in the next election. President Obregon is barred by an article of the constitution from contesting for re-election. Secretary Calles, considered by many as his logical successor, will doubtless enter the race unless his health, which of late has given him much trouble, forces him to abandon politics altogether. In the event that Secretary Calles is eliminated it is believed that Secretary de la Huerta, former provisional president, will be the administration candidate. Whether the administration choice runs as a Cooperitista which party now claims President Obregon as a member, or as an Independent depends entirely on politics as they pertain at the time the active campaign opens.

At any rate the Cooperitistas will enter a man in the race, and if an alliance with the administration is not made it is considered quite possible that Jorge Prieto Laurens, youthful leader of the party, at present a federal deputy and the mayor of Mexico City, will be the party choice. Roque Gonzales Garza, a former president, is also talked of in this connection. Senor Laurens' youth may prove a barrier; but constitutional prohibitions have been winked at before when political expediency was urgent.

It is a foregone conclusion that the Conservatives, united either under one party or campaigning as several groups, will be represented in the race. The Catholic party at the last election supported Alfredo Robles Dominguez, who in the old days acted as a sort of liaison officer betwen the Porfiro Diaz and the Francisco Madero groups. He contested with small hope of election and polled but a few votes. But the Catholics are a growing power, and the Filippi expulsion incident has served to unite them against the administration, especially against Secretary Calles. Dominguez may be their standard bearer, but many predict the Catholics will ally themselves with the Fascisti who as yet have not revealed their sentiments for president.

A review of possible conservative material finds these names always mentioned:

Francisco Leon de la Barra, former president and now living in France. Because of his present happy connection with the French government it is not believed, he would even allow his name to be considered.

Albert Garcia Granados, former army general under President Diaz, now living in the United States.

Manuel Calero, former ambassador at Washington and now in the United States.

There are others now residents of the United States, who also figure in the speculation. General Manuel Peaez, General Pablo Gonzales and General Esteban Cantu, former governor of Lower California, are among the most prominent.

And then there are others who are not definitely allied with any group, but who may be requistioned as candidates. There is Roberto V. Presqueira, who represented the Obregon government at Washington during the early stages of the recognition negotiations. Senor Pesqueira is close to the present government and is known as a broad gauge man who might fit in well to break the recognition deadlock. There is also Eduardo Iturbide, grand nephew of Emperor Iturbide of Mexico. He is a sound business man, sane in his political convictions, allied with no particular group, and well thought of by all here. He also has a certain standing in the United States due to his position as counsellor to Secretary de la Huerta during the debt negotiations last summer. Felix F. Palavicini, editor of El Universal, also has been mentioned as a possible civilian candidate as opposed to the military.

Emerio de la Garza already has formally announced himself from Havana as a presidential candidate, saying that Mexico needs a Messiah and that he proposes to be cast in that role. His antecedents, however, do not lend seriousness to his announcement. It is also assumed that Senor Miranda y Zunigg, perennial candidate, who has contested in every election since the Diaz regime, will again enter himself.

Issues and platforms have never intruded much in Mexican politics, where the contest is largely personal. In a general way, relations with the United States will figure in party declarations, with constitutional reforms, particularly in regard to Article 27 and the agrarian law, as points of discussion.

Truths in Epigram

Better to be despised for too anxious apprehensions than ruined by too confident a security. —Burke.

Here is the manliness of manhood, that a man has a reason for what he does, and has a will in doing it.—Alexander Maclaren.

We do a great deal of shirking in this life on the ground of not being geniuses.—Rose Cleveland.

THE WISDOM OF SHAW

George Bernard Shaw, despite the glaring fault of egotism, is one of the outstanding figures in the world of letters. He has not only a keenness of perception little less than uncanny, but he can pack much truth into small space. One is inclined, in view of his ability, to forgive his occasional bombast, his periods of insincerity, brutal frankness and his conceit.

"Be good enough to remember" Shaw is quoted as saying, "that your morals are only your habits; and do not call other people immoral because they do not have your habits."

In that brief paragraph is packed much wisdom. There are souls born to certain conventions. These conventions may be good or bad, judged by their effects upon the race; upon its progress and happiness. Nevertheless the conventions are accepted as a code not merely of conduct but of spirituality. The one whose intelligence protests against impairment of his right of independent thought, becomes an offense to the little soul plodding in a rut. There are efforts to make him conform. He is told what beliefs he must entertain, what course of living pursue. He resents this naturally. It is unwarrantable interference with his liberty. He protests against the censorship of ideas.

"Whilst we have prisons it matters little which of us occupies the cells."

Such is another brief essay upon human conditions. At first glance it may not be understood. Nevertheless it is the essence of verity. It is necessary that the violent be restrained. No authority would seek to jail the upright citizen engaged in good works. It really matters clearly whether an assassin be in jail or has freedom, while one who would not harm a fellow being, is shut behind bars. Thus, taken literally, and in no other way, the dictum of Shaw has no logical basis.

But the presence of prisons as a necessary adjunct to maintenance of order, argues a bad state of society. Doubtless this fact was the inspiration of the seemingly contradictory comment. The outstanding circumstance that somebody is in prison, is the one that appealed to Shaw. Identity of the individual is a matter of personal concern rather than of wide importance. Evidently the author thinks that society should be at the plane where the existence of prisons could be no part of the scheme of government. Until attainment of such level, social imperfection must continue manifest, and the frowning prison walls be its symbol.

SOCIETY AND THE BOOTLEGGER

The bootlegger is recognized to be the enemy of society, as the latter term generally is understood. But there is another society. It is restricted numerically, is inclined to be exclusive, and not above snubbing the undesirable who manifest a desire to break in. The relationship of this latter society to the bootlegger is quite a different matter, and the subject not devoid of interest.

It appears that a bootlegger at Washington had been doing business on a large scale almost within the shadow of the capitol dome. He was caught, and his goods and chattels confiscated. In the collection was found a list of names right out of the center of the group esteemed not only superior socially, but virtually unapproachable by the ordinary person. The fear arises that they were approachable by the bootlegger. At least, it is not supposed that he had the list by accident. The bootlegger is far from being the ordinary person, however. His style of approach doubtless is more persuasive.

To jump to the conclusion that all these names represent patrons would be hasty. They may represent nothing but prospects. Or they are perhaps set down as individuals who would scorn commerce with a bootlegger. Yet suspicion is rife. It seems to be up to the ones listed to show how it happened. Admirals and army men are of the number.

That men engaged in government service should be engaged in defying the mandates of the government, would be rather a sorry expose. It would have the influence of creating contempt for law, that had been put into the constitution to be obeyed, and not to be flouted.

THE LIGHT OF FRIENDSHIP

Sir Robert Horne, formerly chancellor of the exchequer, said in a recent speech at Edinburgh, that only one factor shed a gleam of hope on the dark prospects of Europe. "That is the increasing friendship between Great Britain and America," he added.

It is highly important that there should be friendship between nations, and among nations. If a feeling of amity touching the relations of England and the United States, constitutes a gleam of hope, lighting the outlook for Europe, vastly greater would be the illumination were all peoples aware of a community of interests, and the value of associating to promote these interests, but not in enmity.

Emphatic as is the valuation placed by Europe on the friendship of America, there are many on this side who contend that such friendship should be withheld. They deny that the affairs of half a civilization are any concern of the other half. They believe it possible for civilization to go on with one half at peace and enjoying prosperity, and the other half torn by war, befooled by the intrigues of diplomacy, and industrially decadent.

Inevitably the time must come when the whole fabric of society shall be more closely knit, or society as now understood will cease to be. Every proposition for greater international intimacy, is, perhaps unconsciously, the expression of this view.

IGNORANCE ISSUES AN ULTIMATUM

The Oklahoma assembly is said to have passed a measure preventing mention of the subject of evolution in any state textbook. Such a course on the part of men assumed to be of fair average intelligence is mere grotesque than that of Voliva, admittedly a crank, in proclaiming the earth flat. Voliva is chief executive of a peculiar congregation. Its members will believe as they are told. They will permit their children to receive instruction in schools promulgating this fool doctrine. But the people of Oklahoma are not zealots, nor intellectually blind. When a lot of legislators seek to hide from them knowledge that is a common possession of the normal mind, they are undertaking not only the absurd but the impossible.

There is no more warrant for excluding the facts of evolution from textbooks than for refusal to let the law of gravitation be named and defined there. As to details of the process of evolution there are differences of opinion. These chiefly pertain to the span of centuries that have been required to bring about the changes, the records of which are written into the hills and the places beneath. Evolution is nothing but growth. One set of conditions has succeeded another set, and each in passing has left its chapter of the world's history. To close the eyes to these chapters, and say that they shall not be read, probably implies a depth of ignorance unexampled. probably implies a depth of ignorance unexampled heretofore in legislation.

The Instinct Against Wrong

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Until we know what the sixth sense is we shall not be able to decide whether or not the instinct against wrong is part of it.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

We know that there is a sixth sense and that apparently it operates independent of the physical body. A few rare people have it today; as we climb the ladder that leads humanity toward the star more must develop it, for it is surely destined to protect and lead man's further development.

Rare as is the sixth sense the native revulsion against wrong is rarer still. The world is full of folks who feel no resentment against injustice if they are the beneficiaries thereof. In fact I know many seemingly respectable citizens who are blithe to yell for help when they see the under dog getting the worst of it, that being the psychological moment to finish the under dog and annex his possessions.

They, being good citizens, are sorry enough for the under dog—in theory—but if there were no under dogs, they reflect, there would be poor pickings.

Last week I was talking to a man about a woman for whom he had conceived a violent infatuation. The woman was his wife's best friend (sic) and it was as such that she wormed herself into the house and into the affections of the spouse of her friend.

The man had normally been honorable; but he denounced his wife for a jealous cat because she said her erstwhile friend was a Jezeble. He, being the beneficiary of her Jezebalic activities, could see no wrong in them. He lacked the sense that instinctively resents dishonor. His philosophy ran close to this:

"Nothing that is agreeable to me can be wrong."

Had anybody told him that he would have indignantly have denied it. Just the same it is true. Just as it is true that another man of my acquaintance, having taken a year's lease on a house, was furious because his landlord held him to it, when he wanted to be released to live in the house of a friend for nothing. He would have benefited by the broken contract and could not see that the breaking of his contract made him a scamp.

Incidentally he stopped speaking of his landlord and today denounces him as a Shylock and skinflint unworthy of an honest man's regard.

One of my most enthusiastic enemies is a woman who absolutely without any instinctive resentment against wrong that she is, to me at any rate, unbearable.

She is a remittance woman, though she would indignantly deny it; and our break came one afternoon when I was dining with her and a starving kitten, just skin and bones, climbed up the wire screen mewing pitifully for food.

I spoke of it and she said:

"Don't let that thing in here. I hate cats."

"It is starving," I reminded her, "and it is helpless."

"I don't care," she said. "It can go somewhere else."

I opened the door and fed the kitten from my plate and when she resented it, I said pointedly:

"If your relatives responded to your need as you have responded to the need of this baby thing, you'd be on the county."

I took the kitten home and she never forgave me. Just the same I hope I started sprouting in her some understanding of the instinctive resentment against wrong.

If I didn't, I did my best.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Comes rather hard does it?
Pretty hard work?
Takes a lot of strength and grit and spirit?
That's good.

Better a hard job than an easy one.

* * *

Anybody can do an easy job.

And you don't want to be merely anybody.

You want to be somebody.

Because anybody can be anybody.

But it takes somebody to be somebody.

* * *

An easy job is for anybody.
Or for nobody.
Because an easy job is not important anyhow.
But a hard job is for somebody.
And a hard job is important.
It is full of difficulties.
That is what makes it hard.
And the harder the job the more we need it done.

* * *

But nothing is more necessary.
It offers all kinds of difficulties.
But jobs are important usually as the difficulties they offer.
And the person who could solve the European problem would be rendering the world a great service.

* * *

So be glad that you have a hard job.
One that calls for all your vision and courage and strength.
Because it will make you somebody.
Lincoln had a hard job.
But he did it.
And we owe him an endless debt.

* * *

Columbus had a hard job.
But he did it.
Looking for a trail in the trackless ocean.
With three little boats.
But if the job had been easy anybody could have done it.
It took Columbus to do it.

* * *

What you were doing today for example.
If it was a hard job and you did it, how much better man you are when it is done.
Better and stronger and more capable.
The next hard job will find a hearty welcome.
Because you will want to show that you can do it.

* * *

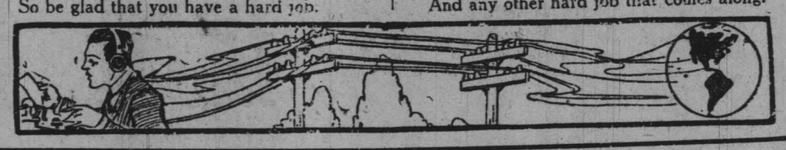
No special credit in doing an easy job.
Anybody could have done it.
So it does not thrill you with performance.
Nothing to thrill about.
Too easy.
It did not strengthen you any.
Did not add anything to your stature.

* * *

So don't seek the easy job.
The fellows who have had [illegible] always are soft and flabby.
Sinecure hunters.
Running away from trial and difficulty.
Seeking always to avoid obstacles.

* * *

What you want is a hard job.
And the fighting spirit to do it.
And any other hard job that comes along.



Songs of the Poets

The Village Schoolmaster—By Oliver Goldsmith

Beside yon straggling fence that skirts the way,
With blossomed furze unprofitable gay,
There, in his noisy mansion skilled to rule,
The village master taught his little school.
A man severe he was, and stern to view:
I knew him well, and every truant knew:
Well had the boding tremblers learned to trace
The day's disasters in his morning face;
Full well they laughed with counterfeited glee,
At all his jokes, for many a joke had he;
Full well the busy whisper, circling round,
Conveyed the dismal tidings when he frowned.
Yet he was kind, or if severe in aught,
The love he bore to learning was his fault.
The village all declared how much he knew:
'Twas certain he could write and cipher too;
Lands he could measure, terms and tides presage,
And e'en the story ran—that he could gauge:
In arguing, too, the parson owned his skill,
For even though vanquished he could argue still;
While words of learned length, and thundering sound,
Amazed the gazing rustics ranged around;
And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew,
That one small head could carry all he knew.
But past is all his fame. The very spot
Where many a time he triumphed is forgot.

FALLACY OF TAXATION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

NO FIELD is fuller of fallacies than the field of taxation.

One of the chief of these is the idea that by levying taxes at the top the bottom can escape. In other words, taxes should be paid by the rich only that the poor may escape.

The idea would be fine, but it will not work, never has worked and in the nature of the case cannot work.

The tax on capital invariably percolates downward and produces increased costs, reduced purchasing power, curtailed production, and lessened employment.

Otto H. Kahn has just published a pamphlet on tax revision that is full of sound sense.

The usual advocate of the income tax says: "Supposing the rich man is made to pay two-thirds or more of his income in taxes. He still has plenty left." The user of this argument can see no farther than his nose. He forgets that the income tax drives capital out of constructive use in the first place.

In the second place, it reduces the incentive to venturing to the vanishing point so that capital will not undertake new work.

In the third place, money that ought to be used in the expansion of the country's business and the prosperity of the whole people is drained into the coffers of the government.

Again, it amounts to a campaign against thrift. Why save when the government will rob you of your savings? The income tax is half brother to the inflated currency of Germany and the confiscation policy of Russia. It promotes extravagance and discourages industry among the rich.

The one point that is overlooked is, as Mr. Kahn points out, that the income tax and surtax defeat their own purposes. Greed, envy, and injustice always overreach themselves. The result of these excessive taxes is not only that capital turns to tax-exempt securities for investment, but it takes every legally permissible dodge to escape intolerable taxation, while a reasonably tax would willingly be paid.

That this is not theory but actual fact is proved by statistics, which show an enormous reduction in the revenue derived by the government from large incomes.

The plain, simple, and practical way out at present is the Sales Tax, the simplest of all taxes both in application and collection.

The sales tax is not an experiment. It is in successful operation in Canada, in the Philippines, and in several other countries.

The sales tax would be more profitable to the government. In 1920 the yield from personal returns was around $1,075,000,000. Conservative estimates indicate that a 1 per per cent sales tax, exempting annual turnovers not exceeding $6000, and also exempting farm crops and live stock, would produce not less than $1,250,000,000.

Unfortunately the idea of "taxing the rich" is a great, popular delusion which it is exceedingly hard to dissipate. A little thought, however, ought to show its fallacy.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

ULTIMATELY

[Montreal Star]

There is no doubt that ultimately the United States must take her place on the bench, and Canada, the empire and the world generally will be gratified if this is the result. Without the assistance of the United States, without her advice and the incentive to peace which the desire to earn and retain her good-will is certain to create, world reconstruction presents an almost insuperable problem. All the peoples of the earth stand to benefit by her participation in the settlement of international questions.

In taking her place upon the bench of a court to whose jurisdiction she herself would not be subject, at liberty to render decisions but not compelled to obey them, the United States would occupy a position unique in legal annals. That the greatest and richest nation of the world should hesitate to take so proud a seat seems inconceivable.

AN OHIO IDEA

[Ohio State Journal]

If campaign promises were always perfectly truthful, we suppose the leading plank in our platform for 1924 would be, in full, as follows: We'll just drift along.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

"Sheik" seems to have been introduced to the American public quite variously. First came the desert yarn, with the sheik the villain or hero. Every possible change was worked with groups of Arabs of which the sheik was the center. There came the novel, the numerous short story, and finally the screen took up the sheik, playing him for a favorite until it had made a monkey of him. But the name is not to be permitted to die out. It has appeared in the vernacular of the police reporter who records the arrest of three "boy sheiks" for burglary. The mighty seem to have fallen.

HENRY JAMES

The Arab of the desert is a romantic figure, or was, until he had been translated into yarns of no particular merit, and pictures that failed to demonstrate his native virtues. But at his worst, he does not belong in the yegg class. He should not be labeled hoodlum. When he steals it is but in response to natural instinct, that by the standards of other people may seem base, but by his own, the evidence of merit. His larceny is grand, which is to say, its magnitude raises it above pettiness. His booty is a band of horses, a drove of laden camels, or the wife of some other sheik.

"Sheik" as a term to designate anything, has been worn to less than a frazzle, whatever that may be.

* * *

Nobody, outside of Ireland anyhow, believes that a campaign of murder and plotting is to result in victory for the side guilty of a policy expressed in this terms. In the heat of ambition confusion seems to arise as to the line of demarcation between crime and patriotism.

This confusion does not extend to those viewing the turmoil from afar.

While Lloyd George was premier it is not too much to say that he had the respect of the world almost to the end of his service. This respect began to weaken upon the revelation that he had backed Greece in its vain and ill-advised assault on Turkey, a movement that has done much to complicate the European situation. It is further impaired by the present exhibition of bad taste that George is making in the public prints.

The world had thought him a big man. Apparently it had misjudged him.

To be marked for assassination is one of the signs of distinction in British politics. No diplomatist there may be quite certain that a bomb, expressive of very hostile opinion, may not be exploded in his midst at any moment. This possibility has led to a number of arrests, each prisoner rejoicing at the opportunity to be a martyr.

A Chicago jury found a woman guilty of the murder of her third husband by poison. The fourth husband was on the scene of trial. It would be interesting to know what he thought about it.

It had been long since the Chicago courts had seemed to regard murder by a woman as a serious offense. That city is reported to be experiencing a wave of reform, of which the verdict possibly is a symptom.

There are many books not quite worth reading. Some of them would be worth reading in the absence of anything better; but so much is available that is better.

A copy of Don Byrne's "The Wind Bloweth" has just been laid aside. It is a charming tale, and yet more than this. It is a study of life, illustrated by the career of one man. In the aggregate of commoner books, it seems to have the luster of a many-faced diamond. In it is charm of thought, appealing to the careful reader, but even to the casual reader, allured by the delightful style, it must score a triumph as a work of literary beauty.

An Englishman visiting the United States says that there are good mixers in this country.

Well, there certainly used to be good mixers, but most of them have had to quit and seek other jobs.

Mention was made yesterday of the man who went to Tia Juana where he lost $1100 in bets; coming back to Los Angeles, he being broke, used enough gas to kill himself even though he had to do this at the expense of the corporation.

There is another episode that began the same way, but seems likely to end at the jail rather than the morgue. In the second instance the man did not lose his own money, but some that he had taken from his employers.

Of course the sporting life, so-called, continues to attract the mentally weak and the morally lax.

They have an interesting poisoning case in Michigan, too. There a woman is on trial for the murder of her first husband. Sitting by her side in court is No. 2.

Perhaps he has absolute faith in her, but chances are if she does any more cooking for him he will ask that she sample the dish before passing it his way.

The recent fire on Mt. Lowe afforded a really thrilling spectacle for many thousands. It could be seen from a great distance throughout the valley. One did not need to be close to realize that it was a big blaze. Such a fire causes sadness to the thoughtful. A burned house may be rebuilt, but a forest in ashes means a scar that only the passing of many years may efface.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

We should not have been surprised when Ben Allen quit work, of course. He never has worked very hard. I never knew such a man for taking days off right in the middle of the week. He and his wife have toured all over this end of the country and they go to the Big Town to hear opera and see queer Russian bugs and up to Canada to fish. But we did not expect him to pull this last colossal, mammoth, extra special bone.

"I'm tired of working," he said, "and I'm never going to work again. For the rest of our lives mamma and I will just play."

It isn't as though he had been a very good business man. Time after time I've known him to loan money on no security at all. The fact that a man was hard-up always seemed to him to be a good reason why his paper should be extended, too, no matter what a prize the collateral might be. And at times of pinch, when any smart banker can get any sort of interest he wants on his money—of course, it has to be taken in as a bonus or a discount or something of the sort—Ben Allen was apt even to cut the rates.

"I want my customers to like me," he used to say. "I'm not in business just to make money."

Of course, I hope the rest of us are just as high-minded as Ben Allen, but then we're sensible men. Business is one thing and altruism is another and they must be kept separate. Besides that, my customers all like me as well as Ben Allen's liked him. A fat chance a man has to remain a customer of mine and spend his spare time disliking me.

"Don't you know," we told him, "that statistics show that business men who retire die almost at once? Why shouldn't they? They have nothing left to live for."

"I won't die," said Ben Allen. "I've been preparing all my life for quitting work, by keeping my interest in other things than per cents. I'll outlive the lot of you."

I'm not sure the man's sane.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

MORE AUTOS HERE THAN IN NEW YORK

California Takes the Blue Ribbon for Pleasure Automobiles

California leads every other state in the Union in the number of passenger cars its residents own, according to figures just given out in a yearly recapitulation issue of Motor Registration News of Oakland, a statistical journal which specializes in recording sales of all makes of motor cars and trucks in California.

There are 803,710 automobiles in California, according to this publication, which also shows that New York State is second with 781,070 and Ohio third with 740,000. In total number of motor vehicles, cars and trucks, New York is first, Ohio second and California third.

In this same recapitulation number it is shown that California bought 169,197 cars and trucks in 1922, an amount 46 per cent greater than was recorded in 1921. Of this total, 150,628 are represented in automobiles and 18,569 in trucks. The passenger car increase is equivalent to 45 per cent and the gain in truck business amounts to 57 per cent.

The eleven Southern California counties bought in 1922, 84,495 automobiles and the forty seven northern counties purchased 66,133 cars. The southern district gained 50 per cent over its 1921 trade and 78 per cent over its 1920 total. The northern section increased 40 per cent over its 1921 business which was 7 per cent less than its 1920 total.

Motor News tabulations also show that in 1920 the south bought 49 per cent of all the cars sold in California, in 1921 it purchased 54 per cent and in 1922 its residents took 56 per cent of all the motor cars coming into the state.

A similar comparison for the north is 51 per cent of the cars in 1920; 46 per cent in 1921 and 44 per cent in 1922.

Every county in the state increased over its 1921 volume, the gains varying from 2 per cent to 148 per cent. Placer county had the lowest increase and Lake county the largest.

The ten leading counties show gains in order of their importance as buying sections to this extent—Los Angeles, 53 per cent; San Francisco county, 33 per cent; Alameda county, 51 per cent; Fresno county, 68 per cent; San Diego county, 43 per cent; Orange county, 40 per cent; Santa Clara county, 35 per cent; Kern county, 44 per cent; Sacramento county, 46 per cent; San Joaquin county, 28 per cent.

Only seven of the leading fifty selling makes registered a loss over 1921 sales, and with two exceptions this group constitutes cars that are fairly well down the list. Tremendous increases are shown by various makes among the first fifty, one car selling well under the $1000 mark, having a state gain of 131 per cent. Another make selling above the $2500 figure, and in quantities, is 100 per cent ahead of its 1921 performance.

Despite the already great number of cars in California the story of 1922 sales as recorded by Motor News brings to light the fact that one new car was bought by every fifteenth person in Los Angeles county; in Kern county, by every fourteenth person; in Fresno, by one in every eighteen persons; in San Francisco the new car ratio was one for every thirty-six residents; in Alemeda county, one for every thirty-five residents; in San Diego, one for every twenty-two; in Santa Clara, one for every twenty-six; in San Joaquin, one for every twenty-four; in Sacramento, one for every twenty-five persons and in Orange county, one for every thirteen persons. The last named county made the best showing in this respect of any section in the state.

There were 169 different makes of cars sold during the year ranging in totals from 1 to 48,981. In 1921 there 152 makes to enter the list. Los Angeles county bought 60,184 of the 150,628 cars sold during the year, nearly 40 per cent of the total.

MULHOLLAND DR. BEING BUILT ON HILLTOPS

Mulholland drive, that long talked of scenic highway, stretching 18 miles along the ridges of the Santa Monica mountains from Laurel canyon to the sea, is to become a reality at last.

"I have wondered for days why some action had not been taken to build a highway along the ridge of the hills back of Hollywood and Beverly, and I now hear that the first spadeful of earth in the start of such a road has been turned.

"Bill Mulholland, loved by every Angeleno, dreamed of such a highway since the first day, as a boy, he wandered over those hills, they tell me, and after riding up the many canyons that cut far into the mountain sides, the other day, I do not wonder that he dreamed. I never imagined so many beauty spots abounded so close to the bustling city.

"Starting at Laurel canyon, the proposed Mulholland Drive will wind along the topmost ridges at an elevation averaging 1000 feet, according to the plans, and be traversed by canyon roads to provide easy access for the people of the San Fernando Valley to the sea. The first lateral will be in rustic Coldwater canyon, which harbors more natural beauty than all the rest, and next to it will be the Franklin canyon road skirting the two reservoirs in the water system of the aqueduct. Then comes Benedict canyon, Longridge, Dixie, Ventura and Sepulveda. The road would end at the famous Topanga canyon and there wind either down to the ocean or into the San Fernando valley.

"We drove up Sepulveda canyon, and here I am told is where much of the romance of the early Spanish day began. It seems that ships unloaded their cargoes at what is now Santa Monica and then began the long haul by ox carts over the mountains to Calabasas, which was the distributing point of the valley.

POPULARITY OF OLDSMOBILE INCREASES

The new two-passenger Oldsmobile cab, recently announced, is enjoying a good sale, especially in the commercial field where business houses want dependable closed cars with large carrying capacity for salesmen. Many firms who have tested the cab are planning on placing "fleet" orders.

The increasing popularity of the Oldsmobile "Pacemaker," our monthly motoring magazine, can be marked by the fact that orders for additional copies of the January issue were placed by 33 per cent of the distributors and dealers. Interest in the "Pacemaker" is widespread in its scope—the Olds Motor Works of Canada, Ltd., being a typical example. This organization has just increased its monthly allotment of "Pacemakers" 38 per cent. The February-March issue, devoted to the Chicago territory, will be off the press in a few days. It is one of the most interesting numbers ever published.

Production and sales increases at the Olds Motor Works during the past year have been remarkable and still the demand for Oldsmobiles continues to grow rapidly. Shipments during February, 1923, were 117 per cent of those during January, 1923; 150 per cent of those in December, 1922, and 216 per cent of those during February a year ago. The gain in Oldsmobile production in January, 1923, over December, 1922, was 78 per cent, while the gain for the entire industry was but 27 per cent. January's production this year for Oldsmobile was 201 per cent greater than January of last year, as against a gain of 136 per cent for the whole industry. Oldsmobile business continues to grow each year and each month. This same growth steadily pushes Oldsmobile to the front ranks of the industry.

Founded in 1897

Work of Sign-Posting "King's Highway" Started By Club

ROAD SIGNS IN FORM OF 'MISSION BELL' TO BE PLACED ALONG EL CAMINO REAL TO GUIDE THOSE TOURING STATE

Actual sign-posting of El Camino Real, the "King's Highway" of California, has just been started by the Automobile Club of Southern California, according to an announcement from the club road-making department.

This is one of the most significant highway sign-posting projects ever undertaken in America, in view of the fact that it permanently establishes the historical mission road along the coast of California and sets the seal of modern road-signing methods on an age-old footpath of romance.

New signs to be erected by the Automobile Club will be placed on the famous "Mission Bell" road-markers which have become familiar to thousands of motorists who have toured in California during the past five years. Wherever there is a mission bell there will be a brand new automobile sign linking the past of ox carts to the present motor cars. The Southern California club will have the responsibility of sign-posting that portion of the El Camino Real which extends from the San Diego mission on the south to the San Luis Obispo mission on the north. In this territory will be found such famous missions as San Luis Rey, San Juan Capistrano, San Gabriel, Santa Barbara and Santa Ynez.

From the San Luis Obispo line north the marking of El Camino Real will be accomplished by another motoring organization of the state so that the entire course of the old Royal Highway will be fairly marked for the use of motorists following this historical route, which is now paved for its entire distance, where a little more than a hundred years ago the mission fathers went plodding along on foot, little dreaming of the mad rush of motor cars to follow in their footsteps. The entire distance to be signed will be more than 400 miles, and the signs will be uniform with green letters on a white background, having the dates of the mission in the vicinity of a sign.

GRADE ACCIDENTS ARE MAKING RECORD

Accident fatalities at grade crossings are setting a record for frequency recently in this part of the state, according to the safety bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Officials of the auto club say in their report that they are at a loss to understand why so many motorists fail to realize that there is as much, and a lot more, room behind the train as there is in front of it.

There is only one safe way to avoid accidents at grade crossings, points out the safety bureau, and that is when approaching a crossing where there is not a clear and unobstructed view of the track in both directions to stop, look and listen. If the way is clear and no train approaching, shift into first or second gear and hurry across.

Don't shift gears again until clear of the tracks. This precaution is necessary to minimize the chance of flooding the carburetor and stalling your car in the middle of the railroad right of way in case you should see a train approaching and nervously push the accelerator down too rapidly.

An additional precaution to be followed where there are two or more tracks is, according to the auto club, after you have waited for a train to pass to allow it to travel far enough so that you may see the other track is clear and that there is no train approaching in the shadow of the one just passed. Many people have been killed because of the failure to take this precaution.

Keep in mind that it is practically impossible for a train to stop in time to prevent an accident in an emergency when you and your car have loomed up suddenly just in front of the engine.

GETTING MOST MILES FROM "GAS"

The trick of running an automobile around 100 miles per gallon of gasoline is usually made on straight-away roads, and before a strong wind. The car is carefully driven at 20 or 25 miles an hour, then with the gears in neutral and the engine stopped, the car is permitted to coast until it is traveling at a slow rate of speed.

KEEPING THEM STRAIGHT IN NEW YORK

For operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated in New York, the penalty is a fine up to $500, imprisonment up to one year, or both. A car owner employing an intemperate driver may be fined $5 for each day of such employment.

RUNS AROUND THE RIDER

A novel motorcycle has been invented in Italy, consisting of a large wheel five feet high. The driver and motor rest on the bottom of the inner rim of the large wheel. It is operated by electricity and can make 40 miles an hour.

CHEV. MAKES BIG ECONOMY RUN

This is the story of a non-stop economy run by a Chevrolet from Minot, N. D., to Los Angeles, Calif. It was staged by the Frosaker-White Motor Company of Minot, and the car was driven by Irving (Speed) Wallace, a professional auto racer. The distance traveled was 3100 miles, and this was covered in 122 hours without stopping. During this grind of five days and two hours, Wallace claims he slept only two hours.

All the roads were rough and hilly. The average rate of travel was 25.4 miles per hour, which means that terrific, death-defying speeds had to be made wherever possible.

In spite of all these unusual conditions, in spite of speed and mountains and rough roads, in spite of the fact that the motor was not stopped for over five days, this Crevrolet consumed only 120 gallons of gasoline and two quarts of oil. That means 25.8 miles per gallon of gasoline and 1550 miles per quart of oil.

"We say Chevrolet spells economical transportation," Frosaker-White advertised. "Did we prove it?"

We'll say they did.

The Chevrolet car is handled in Glendale and San Fernando valley by C. L. Smith, corner of Colorado and Orange.

U. S. BUILDS MANY ROADS IN FOREST

During 1922 the United States Forest Service spent more than $500,000 in the construction and maintenance of 5,080 miles of roads and trails within the national forests of California. This sum was in addition to the special appropriations made by congress for major forest highways. Work done during the year consisted of the construction of 182 miles of minor roads and 418 miles of new trails, and the maintenance of 988 miles of roads and 3,492 miles of trails.

The Standard Lumber company of Sonora, Calif., has just purchased 13,300,000 feet of government timber on the south fork of the Stanislaus National forest. The price paid per thousand feet was $4 for sugar pine, $3 for yellow pine and $1.25 for white fir and incense cedar. The sale will run for a period of two years, and cutting will be done under forestry methods, which will insure the production of a new forest on the land.

AMERICA ON WHEELS

The United States, with 12,281,445 motor vehicles, has a larger registration than the combined total of 27 foreign countries.

WHY MOTOR OF CAR BACKFIRES

An engine backfires when cold from the same cause that it backfires when hot—too thin an explosive mixture. When the engine and the gasoline are cold a considerable part of the gasoline does not vaporize, but goes through the engine in a nonexplosive condition, thus more gasoline has to be used to supply sufficient vapor to properly enrich the air. Be careful not to leave the choker out after the engine has warmed up; it will cause deterioration of the cylinder oil by dilution.

RADIO NEWS FOR MOTORISTS

The condition of highways in Massachusetts and bordering states is broad-casted every Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock by the Automobile Legal association. This service gives motorists up-to-the-minute information on the condition of trunk line highways.

TWO-MILE SPEEDWAY

A two-mile motor speedway is to be constructed at Glen Allen, Va., ten miles from Richmond. The grandstands will accomodate between 60,000 and 75,000 persons.

CARRY CHAINS ON TRIP TO LAKES

Going to Arrowhead or Big Bear Lake? If so, read the following road condition report of the "trails" leading to those points:

Big Bear Lake: Plenty of snow reported in Big Bear valley. The Victorville-Desert road is easily passable. Motorists are cautioned to carry chains as the road over Cushenberry and Johnson's grades is apt to be slippery on account of melting snow. The other roads to Big Bear are still closed.

Arrowhead Lake: It is possible to reach Arrowhead Lake via Hesperia and the new road. Motorists should not attempt this trip without chains as there is plenty of snow between the toll house and the lake. Motorists having difficulty on account of melting snow conditions are urged to phone from the tool house to the resort and assistance will reach them.

The Good MAXWELL

VEGETABLE BUYERS BLOCK THE HIGHWAYS

At this time of the year the wayside shrines sacred to King Vegetable are attracting hundreds of devotees every day. Small mobs of motorists are gathering each hour around the alluring out-door stands at the sides of the road almost anywhere in this part of the country.

But the worshippers at these wayside vegetable shrines are blocking the highways, according to officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Sometimes some very serious accidents and near-accidents have occurred because auto owners hop out of their vehicles and leave them standing almost in the center of the road while they visit the market and pinch and tweak the fruits and vegetables.

The Auto club wants to suggest that all motorists who patronize the highway markets thoughtfully pull over off the road so that other machines can continue on their way. Don't have to be told to do this by a speed cop or officer, but do it of your own accord, suggests the club. Some motorists have a bad habit of casting a look over their shoulder to see if there is a cop around, and if they don't see any, they think they are slipping one over by evading a state law or act of common courtesy.

As a matter of fact, there is a law which makes it illegal to halt your motor car in any highway in California, but perhaps there is not an officer present every minute in the vicinity of the vegetable stands. Motor car traffic has become such a tremendous problem in the southern counties of California that it is becoming more and more important for every individual automobile owner to take a little public interest in the welfare of this condition so that an unfortunate impression will not be given to our Eastern visitors of our hospitality and courtesy.

Please just remember the next time you stop to buy some rhubarb or oranges or cabbages along the road to get your car off the highway so that traffic will not be blocked as it is at present.

LARGE QUANTITIES OF COPPER USED

More than 120,000,000 pounds of copper will be required in the automobile industry during 1923 in the manufacture of 2,800,000 vehicles, predicted by trade authorities, if the same ratio of consumption of the metal used in 1922 is maintained. The copper and brass research association estimates that 108,280,000 pounds of copper were used in the 2,527,000 automobiles and trucks made in 1922, an increase of nearly 38,000,000 pounds over the quantity used in 1921. This was an average copper content in each unit made of thirty pounds. Special body work and accessories added about three pounds of copper per car.

HEAVY TRAVEL TO TAHOE IS EXPECTED

TAHOE CITY, Calif., March 16.—Travel to Lake Tahoe during the coming summer season will be the greatest in history, according to C. T. Bliss, general manager of the Lake Tahoe Railway and Transportation company. Thousands of applications for reservations are being received from people throughout the whole country including scores of celebrities.

Railroad traffic officials attribute this influx of tourists to the nation-wide newspaper advertising campaigns being waged by the Californians, Incorporated and the Southern Pacific company.

Fishing at the lake this season promises to be the best in years owing to the heavy precipitation and rainfall last winter.

Many improvements have been made in the 9-hole golf course at the Tavern. The fairways have been lengthened, greens improved and considerable acreage added to the links.

Another attraction at Tahoe this summer will be the increased number of motor boats and power launches on the lake. George A. Pope and George Newhall of San Francisco are both reported to be building new and improved styles of speed and cruiser type power boats for use on the lake. Norman de Vaux, nationally known sportsman of Piedmont, is also expected to enter some fast boats in the motor boat races in July.

A camp for girls, under the direction of Miss Florence Bosse of San Francisco, will be opened here in June. Judging from the number of applications being received by Miss Bosse, the camp, although an innovation, is expected to be a success.

Round trip rates to summer resorts in California will be put into effect April 27 by the Southern Pacific in order that sportsmen may take advantage of the opening of the fishing season May 1.

Tahoe Tavern will open May 30, Bliss states. Other resorts on the lake will open in June.

Car Thieves Are Caught in Arizona

In three men lately arrested at Douglas, Ariz., local officers believe they have secured the leaders in a wholesale auto-bandit organization. It was found the men had secured the printing in Douglas of a quantity of blank bills of sale, in which the "Western Motor Company" was named as the vendor of machines, with spaces left for all details of descriptions.

LUBRICATION IS IMPORTANT

"Lubrication one of the most important things that a motor-car driver has to contend with at all times. Unless he uses good oil in the crank case, he will have trouble. He will find scored cylinders and a host of other troubles that would not happen if he took good care of his lubrication problems.

Hidden Values Keep Essex Young in Long Service

After fifty, sixty and seventy thousand miles, Essex cars keep the dash and action of new cars. They stay tight and quiet. They keep their economy of operation and maintenance.

Service like that is not accidental. It results from hidden values which are fully revealed only in long hard service. Attention to detail extends to parts you never see. Finest roller bearings are used where commonly plain bushings are used. For the weight carried the Essex frame is the sturdiest built, save one.

Qualities like these make Essex cost less in the long run than the lowest priced cars, because of the difference in repair, maintenance and replacement costs.

GOING EAST THIS YEAR? READ THIS

The transcontinental touring season will soon be here. For some motorists it has already started. These, in their desire to get an "early start" to the coast have already turned the noses of their "barks" toward the rising sun. That they will have trouble in getting through is to be expected but they are willing to take a chance.

For those contemplating "hopping off" for eastern points before a great while the following report on road conditions has been compiled for the automobile section of the Glendale Press by the touring department of the Automobile Club of Southern California:

Transcontinental Travel

Inquiries on all transcontinental routes are pouring into the touring bureau of our organization and this spring will probably find thousands of motorists who have been spending the winter in Southern California journeying over the various transcontinental routes which terminate here. The Bankhead highway has, of course, been open and subjected to heavy travel throughout the winter months just past. The National Old Trails route should be in shape for travel by April 1 and after that time motorists should anticipate no extremely cold weather or severe storms along any portion of that route. The Lincoln highway from Salt Lake City east can be used with safety and comfort after the middle of April. The bulk of travel between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City will favor the Arrowhead Trail this spring to avoid poor conditions on the Great American Desert between Ely and Salt Lake City on the main line of the Lincoln Highway. The Yellowstone Trail will be open from Spokane east across Montana about the middle of May—surely by June 1, provided mild weather prevails and no severe storms occur between now and those dates.

National Old Trails Route — Los Angeles to New York City.

Paved from Los Angeles to Victorville; thence good desert road to Barstow and Daggett. The highway is still very rough in many places between Daggett and Ludlow. Most of the travel is favoring the south road between Ludlow and Amboy. Excellent desert road from Amboy to Needles. At the present time the highway is clear across Arizona from Kingman to Holbrook and Springerville. West of Flagstaff to Winslow there are many rough stretches. The road across northern Arizona will be passable if fair weather continues. The highway is also open from Springerville to Magdalena, Socorro and Albuquerque. Albuquerque to Santa Fe good Sante Fe to Las Vegas, rough in stretches, especially on the detours around construction work. Las Vegas to Trinidad via Maxwell and Raton Pass in excellent shape with many stretches of new road. The Raton Pass itself is a boulevard. Those desirous of reaching Denver leave the Santa Fe trail at Trinidad and go north over good Colorado roads through Pueblo to Colorado Springs. Those desiring to reach Kansas City, Chicago and New York, continue on the main line of the Santa Fe Trail across southeastern Colorado through Kansas and Missouri to St. Louis—boulevard conditions prevail from St. Louis to the Atlantic Coast.

Lincoln Highway, Midland Trail, Los Angeles to New York City via Salt Lake City and Omaha

From Los Angeles to Mojave, paved. The road north through the Owens River Valley to Mojave through Big Pine and Bishop is in splendid shape. There is some snow on Westgard Pass between Big Pine and Goldfield; also on Montgomery Pass out of Bishop, but not enough to hinder travel Goldfield to Tonopah, 26 miles, good dirt road. There is a long stretch of improved road east of Tonopah, almost the entire distance to Warm Springs. From that point, motorists can use the Blue Eagle route or the Hot Creek route to Butler's Ranch. There are several miles of rough road out of Butler's Ranch, then splendid highway into Ely. From Ely east to Goldhill, via McGill and Sheridan's Ranch, the Lincoln Highway offers good going, but from Goldhill across the alkali flats to Orr's Ranch, the possibility of getting through at this season is absolutely dependent on the weather. Splendid highway is followed from Orr's Ranch via Stockton to Tooele and into Salt Lake City (the route is also open to Salt Lake from Twin Falls via Wells).

Bankhead Highway, Borderland Route, San Diego to El Paso and Easterly Points.

There has been a considerable amount of travel over the Planked Road between El Centro and Yuma, aproximately 30 cars per day have been using that road between those points this winter. From Yuma to Welton is in splendid shape and from Welton, road construction is under way to a point just west of Sentinel. The old road has to be used into Sentinel, this is to the south of the new highway under construction, and has been very badly cut up on account of the activities of teams and construction outfits; thence fair and poor stretches of dirt road to a point seven miles west of Gila Bend, then improved gravel road into Gila Bend. Both routes between Sentinel and Tucson—the one via Ajo, or the one by Phoenix, are being used extensively at present and both have been signposted by the Automobile Club of Southern California. The balance of the highway from Tucson to El Paso is in splendid shape. Motorists going to New Orleans or Florida should inquire at the El Paso Automobile Club to determine their routing across Texas—whether to continue on the Bankhead Highway, which follows the T. & P. railroad to Fort Worth, Dallas and Shreveport, thence over the Jefferson Highway to New Orleans or whether to use the Old Spanish Trail via Van Horn, Ozona, San Antonio and Houston into New Orleans. To a great extent weather conditions across Texas will determine at all seasons the best routing between El Paso and New Orleans.

Arrowhead Trail, Los Angeles to Salt Lake City via Las Vegas.

This route is passable in its entirety and subjected to heavy travel. Motorists are still complaining about the deplorable road conditions on that portion of the route between Daggett and Amboy. The poor conditions there consist chiefly of chuck holes and hard lumps of old oil macadam. This portion, however, is easily passable with slow speed. The Arrowhead Trail turns north at a point fourteen miles west of Needles and follows through Searchlight, Las Vegas, St. Thomas, Beaver and Provo to Salt Lake City. Some snow will be encountered between Beaver and Salt Lake City. The highway is paved north of Provo. It is not advisable to attempt to reach Zion National Park or the north rim of the Grand Canyon at this season nor will it be until sometime later.

MAXWELL SPORT IS VERY MUCH IN DEMAND

Few, if any, models ever introduced by any motor car company have achieved greater success from the start than has the Maxwell sport touring car. The great demand for it serves to indicate the tremendous forward strides the Maxwell Motor Corporation has made during the last 15 months, said Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado, Maxwell and Chalmers dealers.

When this model was announced to the dealer organization last October to fulfill a definite and expressed desire by the motoring public for this type of Maxwell car, it was the signal for a volume of orders to be placed immediately for it from all parts of the country.

Maxwell was oversold on its first month's output of the sport touring within a few days after the announcement to dealers. A considerably enlarged production was made possible, which was immediately offset by an even larger demand as the model became more generally known.

Again ways were found to increase the output. And Maxwell officials, believing that the buying of open cars would fall off with the approach of winter and the consequent heavier sale of closed models, thought the second increased schedule would take care of the demand.

Today, nearly six months after the car was introduced, despite a third increase in output, and even though no general national announcement to the public has ever been made, Maxwell continues to be heavily oversold on this model.

The car has the rakish features and carries the equipment so much in demand among those who seek extremes and extraordinarily snappy performance. It is easily the most complete car of its type ever offered to the consumer at its price.

The sport touring gives evidence of genuine artistry in car design and appointment, as well as careful consideration of the owner's requirements. Body and hood are painted Chester Hunt red, with running gear and disc wheels in black. Drum-type head lamps and tie-rod, parking lamps, radiator and water meter are in full nickel. Outside door handles are also nickel with black aluminum inlay. An aluminum bead runs around the hood at the cowl and lends a touch that rounds out the impression of completeness.

Upholstery is genuine long-grained patent leather of high finish. The top, which is extremely well made, is olive-drab duck. The standard black top is optional.

Equipment also includes a spare cord tire encased in an envelope type olive-drab duck tire cover, fitted with glove fasteners and nickel strap ring. The left front fender is specially designed and countersunk to receive the tire.

Best quality nickel spring bumpers are regular equipment, both front and rear. An attractive nikeled water indicator supplants the regular radiator car. A large trunk with dust cover is also regular equipment. It is mounted on a heavy nickeled trunk rack in the rear, with aluminum truck bars protecting the body.

BIG TIRE COMPANY ADDS NEW STORE

The Automobile Tire Company, which has a Glendale store at 143 South Brand, has added another link to its growing chain of progressive stores, having opened another store this week at Santa Ana, making it fourteen stores now operated by this firm.

The reason for the rapid growth is based upon the company's "carload buying power" policy and retailing standard tires at wholesale prices, according to C. H. Montgomery, local manager.

"The Automobile Tire Company has a one-price system, with each branch store selling at exactly the same price that prevails at our Los Angeles store," stated Mr. Montgomery.

This is the Tread

The Tread of the Western Giant Cord, the tread that wears, and wears, and wears. Look at it—heavy, strong, built-up square, to give a maximum of traction and wearing surface. Yes, it still wears after most treads are gone.

The Tread of Safety—see the strong bars of rubber along the side of the tread, and the row of suction cups down the center—these with the flatness of the tread mean a non-skid security that is dependable. Users say it is the best non-skid they have ever used.

The Western Giant Cord is guaranteed for 12,000 miles, and the guarantee is backed by the strength of our entire organization. You can buy these tires only at "Western Auto" stores, but you will buy only "Western Giants" after you have tried them.

Not only are prices lower than other fine tires, but for a limited period a Guaranteed Tube is being given with each Western Giant Cord.

Lower in Price Than Other Fine Tires

Fabric Tires

Thousands of customers come back to us year after year for more fabric tires because they get good service. We handle three grades: The Western Giant, which is the finest material and workmanship procurable, guaranteed 8000 miles; the Pharis, which is standard quality, full size and weight and our "old standby" since 1914, guaranteed 7000 miles; also the Nebraska, a really good, serviceable tire at an extremely low price, guaranteed 6000 miles.

THE BUICK FILLS EVERY AUTO NEED

No matter where you go, or how hard the country over which you travel, or regardless of the time of year at which you do the touring, you always find a Buick.

No matter what you are looking for—comfort, serviceability, ease of operation, economy, downright ruggedness—you will find it in a Buick.

Some firms rely on their advertising to sell cars. Others stake their chances on skillful salesmen, but the Buick relies on service in the truest sense of the word for its original sales and "repeats."

Tanner & Hall, Ltd., 237 South Brand boulevard, agents for the Buick in Glendale, are among the oldest firms in this city. They have nothing but satisfied customers, which, naturally follow in the wake of a car of the Buick's calibre.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"

Shows How to Locate and Correct any Automobile Engine Trouble

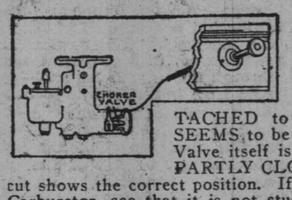
By E. H. SCOTT

This is the fourth of a series of specially prepared and illustrated articles showing the ordinary automobile driver how to locate any engine trouble

What To Do When the Engine Slows Up and Stops on the Road or Starts Up and Runs for a Short Time Then Stops

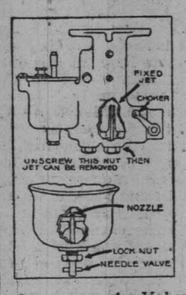
1. Look in the gasoline tank to see that you have sufficient gasoline, and examine the small hole in the Tank Cap to see that it is not blocked up. If you have enough gasoline and the hole is clear then—

2. Lift the hood and open the drain plug at the bottom of the Carburetor or hold the Float Valve open as shown in the illustration, AND KEEP IT OPEN FOR AT LEAST 8 SECONDS, TO SEE THAT THE GASOLINE CONTINUES TO FLOW IN A STEADY STREAM. If it STOPS flowing FREELY after a few seconds, or DOES NOT FLOW AT ALL, then the trouble lies in the Vacuum Tank or its connections, and the instructions given in the second article of this series will show you how to find the exact part. If, however, the gasoline continues to flow FREELY then—



3. The Choker or Priming button on the dash opens and closes a Valve in the main air entrance to the Carburetor. Examine to see that the wire leading through from this button is FIRMLY ATTACHED to the lever on the Valve. If it SEEMS to be all right, then make sure that the Valve itself is not stuck or jarred CLOSED or PARTLY CLOSED across the air entrance. The cut shows the correct position. If you have an AIR VALVE on the Carburetor, see that it is not stuck OPEN. If both above are all right then—

4. Take out a Spark Plug and after attaching the wire again lay it on top of the cylinder as shown. Now turn the engine over while you watch the points of the Plug to see if there is a spark. If there is NOT, then the trouble lies in the Ignition, and the instructions given in last week's article will show you how to find the exact part of the Ignition System at fault. If however, you SEE a spark, then—



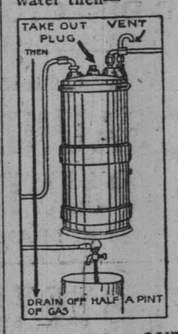
5. Test to see if the Gasoline Spraying Nozzle in the Carburetor is not blocked. There are two types of Nozzles, the fixed type, which has a Jet, and the adjustable type, which has a Needle Valve. The illustration shows both types. Consult Carburetor maker's instruction on clearing a blocked Jet if possible.

If you have a Fixed Jet, as in a Zenith Carburetor, turn off the Gasoline, then unscrew the plug underneath the Jet and it can be screwed out. If the Jet is blocked, DO NOT use a piece of wire to clear it, as this may make the hole slightly larger and upset the "tune" of the Carburetor. Try and blow or jar the dirt out.

If you have an Adjustable or Needle Valve Gasoline adjusting screw that can be screwed up or down, unscrew the lock nut a trifle, then screw the Valve out EXACTLY FOUR TURNS. Now set the throttle lever WIDE OPEN but PULL OUT the Choker, then turn the engine over as fast as possible with either the Starter or hand crank about ten times, then push in the Choker and turn the Needle Valve back EXACTLY FOUR TURNS.

Now see if the engine will start. If it STILL will not start then—

6. Turn off the gasoline and drain all that remains in the Carburetor Float Chamber into a cup or can, and examine to see if there is any water in it. If there is, it will be noticed lying in little globules at the bottom of the can, so drain off some gasoline from the bottom of the Vacuum Tank and some from the bottom of the main tank, and it will generally cure the trouble. If, however, there is NO SIGN of water then—



7. Examine the hole in the end of the Vent Pipe on the Vacuum Tank to see that it is not blocked up. If it is free, then screw out the small plug from the top of the Vacuum Tank and also drain off about half a pint of gasoline from the bottom of the Vacuum Tank, then try to start the engine. If it now starts and keeps running, and in about a minute is firing REGULARLY, the Float in the Tank is punctured or the Suction Valve is not seating properly, and it will require a Service Station to repair it. You can get home by leaving the plug out of the top of the tank and driving until the engine stops again, when the gasoline in the tank will have been used. Just replace the plug in the tank and turn the engine over about a dozen times or until the tank is full, then take it out and drive on again, continuing in this way until you reach a Service Station. If, however, it makes NO DIFFERENCE in the running of the engine whether the Plug is IN or OUT, then—

8. Check the Ignition Timing to see if it has slipped. The timing varies a trifle on different engines, so if possible consult the Instruction Book you got with your car, to see what the EXACT setting should be. The following setting is near enough to CHECK UP your timing. If there is VERY much difference, then your Ignition timing has slipped, and will require an expert mechanic to set correctly. Check as follows—

Take out the Spark Plug from No. 1 cylinder (this is the cylinder next the radiator), then place your thumb over the Spark Plug hole, while you have some one turn the engine over SLOWLY, until you feel a PRESSURE against the thumb. As soon as you feel the pressure insert a piece of wire down the Spark Plug hole, so that you can feel when the Piston, which is coming up, reaches EXACTLY the top of its stroke. On some engines you can SEE the piston when it reaches the top of its stroke, and in that case the wire is not necessary. The cylinder is now at the top of its compression stroke, and both Valves should be closed. Now see that the Spark Lever is FULLY RETARDED, then take off the Distributor Head, and if the timing is correct, the Breaker Points will be JUST BEGINNING TO OPEN, and the Distributor Arm Contact will be pointing EXACTLY opposite the point or segment inside the Distributor Head which is attached to the wire leading to No. 1 cylinder. If the timing checks up ALL RIGHT, then—

9. Remove the Muffler and take it apart and clean it.

NEXT WEEK—WHAT TO DO WHEN THE ENGINE STOPS SUDDENLY BECAUSE IT IS SEIZED UP OR IS OVERHEATING BADLY.

BIG TIRE SALE AT CUT RATE STORE

Several of the larger tire manufacturers have advanced their prices within the past few days, and in face of this fact, A. C. Fangman, manager of the Cut Rate Tire Store, 212 West Broadway, opposite the post office, is putting on a tire sale during the week of March 17 to 24, in which he believes the slashing of prices has never before been equalled in Glendale.

The Cut Rate Tire Store does not sell any seconds whatever, and all tires in this sale are strictly firsts and of nationally known brands. Mr. Fangman says that he wants the tire buyers of Glendale to know of the immense savings on tires to be had by buying from the Cut Rate Tire Store.

A glimpse at the ad appearing in this paper will give the buyers a better idea of this opportunity.

GOODYEAR GARDEN HOSE NOW AT MONARCH

The Monarch Auto Supply Company has added the famous Goodyear Wingfoot garden hose to its stock of home supplies. It is claimed for this Goodyear product that it is "kink-proof," and it is absolutely guaranteed for two years against cracking. The "Monarch" carries this hose in both 25 and 50 foot lengths, with sockets attached and ready for use, and predicts fully as great a sale for this Goodyear hose as they now enjoy for Goodyear tires.

Camping goods are arriving daily at the "Monarch," and it has already received several styles of camp stoves, which are on display.

AUTO CLUB OF SO. CALIF. WANTS ORIGINAL ROAD PROGRAM FINISHED BEFORE OTHER WORK CONSIDERED

Club Also Goes on Record As Favoring One Cent Per Gallon Tax on Gasoline; Makes Owners Pay for Damage Done Highways by Autos

The question of the weight of motor vehicles using the highways is an important one considered by club directors.

It is indicated that the Automobile Club will recommend to the legislature the following action at the present session:

1. No new mileage should be added to the State Highway system at the present session of the legislature. In other words, it is the policy of the club that the state should assume no new commitments while its present road building projects are uncompleted.

2. State Highway construction work should be paid for by bond issue or legislative appropriation. None should be provided for at this session as the state now has road contracts in excess of $16,000,000. We believe those contracts will fully occupy the Highway Commission's attention and we do not favor the raising of additional funds for construction during 1923.

3. State Highway maintenance work and reconstruction should be paid for by motor vehicle owners through fees or indirect taxes.

4. All fees raised directly or indirectly from motor vehicle owners should be placed in one fund—the Motor Vehicle Fund, which should be divided equally between the state and counties after the Motor Vehicle Department expenses are paid therefrom. This is the division provided for by law at the present time.

5. There should be no change in the fees paid by motor vehicle owners prior to February 1, 1924; the fees to be paid by motor vehicle owners during the year beginning February 1, 1924, should not exceed $15,000,000.

6. The fees to be paid by each individual motor vehicle owner should be based upon the damage by his vehicle to the highways and should take into consideration two factors—weight and mileage.

We believe that such fees should not at the present time exceed $2 as a registration fee and 1 cent per gallon as a motor fuel tax, and that the balance should be raised by a weight tax. We believe that the registration fee proposed would yield approximately $2,000,000 per year and that the proposed motor fuel tax would raise approximately $6,000,000 per year. We believe that the weight fees should differentiate between vehicles equippel with pneumatic tires and those equipped with solid tires, favoring the former on account of the lesser damage they do the highways. We suggest a tax of one-quarter cent per pound on all pneumatic tire equipped vehicles (so-called pleasure cars included) and one-half cent per pound on all solid tire equipped vehicles, basing the tax on the combined weight of the vehicle and its load capacity. Such a tax would yield in excess of $7,000,000, or the balance of the maximum revenue suggested. The weight of the load of passenger vehicles should be figured by multiplying the passenger carrying capacity by 150 pounds, and the weight of the load of trucks, and all other commercial vehicles should be based upon the manufacturer's rated load capacity.

7. We believe that the weight limits provided for in Senate Bill 115, to-wit, 22,000 pounds on four-wheeled vehicles and 30,000 pounds on six-wheeled vehicles, should be adopted. We base this recommendation upon engineering advice made after careful investigation to the effect that the state highways constructed by the former Highway Commission will not withstand heavier loads."

CHINESE ARMY DIVISION IS CHRISTIAN

CHICAGO, March 16.—The Eleventh division of the Chinese army, called by some "the Chinese Ironsides," commanded by Major General Feng Yu Hsiang, known as "the Cromwell of China," has become solidly Christian, according to a cablegram received today by the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The cablegram, which was from the Rev. Edward Kingsley Lowry, a returned missionary to China residing in Peking, told of the conversion of 4,000 soldiers of the Eleventh division, with General Feng assisting at the ceremony. According to the board of foreign missions, there were only about this number of soldiers remaining in General Feng's division who were not Christians, so the board infers that this completes the personnel of this fighting group of China.

It was General Feng and his Eleventh division which swooped down from Shensi Province to the relief of Peking, then being defended by General Wu Pei Fu in the fighting of last summer. General Feng threw his men into the path of the victorious Manchurians and hurled them back in a defeat, which eventually resulted in rout. At that time the Christian soldiers wore arm bands containing the stern military ideals of their leader. They advanced to the fray singing Christian hymns. This division is the only one in the Chinese army in which there is definite welfare work and vocational training for the men, all of which is due to the constructive activity of their leader, the board states.

If you must criticize your boss, do it inwardly.

STATE ROADS ARE GOOD, SAYS CLUB

The warm, balmy days bring dreams of the open road.

No state in the union enjoys the amount of touring that is known in California. For this condition there are a number of reasons—climate, good roads, and so on.

The good roads! Anyone who has toured in California has learned to love its good roads. The hundreds of miles of highways almost like glass are a source of continuous pleasure to the person who is touring the state, or who is making even a short jaunt from town to town.

The condition of the highways, therefore, is of extreme importance when a trip of any size is being considered. The bumpy road is an abomination—the smooth, paved highways bring the motorist as near to heaven as many of them, probably, will ever get.

The following report on the Southern California and "L. A. to Frisco" routes has been prepared for the readers of the Glendale Daily Press auto section by the touring department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Except for small changes that may have been made within the past day or so, this road report may be relied upon absolutely:

Coast Route North

The coast route north from San Diego to San Francisco via Los Angeles, Ventura, Santa Barbara, Santa Maria, Paso Robles and San Luis Obispo offers boulevard conditions in its entire length. In travelling between Los Angeles and Ventura, motorists have a choice of three paved roads, one by way of the state highway through Calabasas and over the Conejo grade; second, by way of Chatsworth and Santa Susana pass; third, by way of Saugus, Piru, Fillmore and Santa Paula.

Inland Route North

This route is in perfect shape and with the exception of occasional stretches of patch work, pavement is continuous its entire length to San Francisco or Sacramento. There is a detour of approximately 1 mile in length near Chandler's, north of the Ridge route—this detour parallels construction work and is easily passable. In driving from Bakersfield to Fresno, motorists have a choice of turning at Delano and going via Exeter, Porterville and Visalia or continuing north through Tipton and Tulare—both routes are paved.

San Diego Coast Route

From Los Angeles, motorists may go to Santa Aha by way of the Whittier road, Whittier, Fullerton and Anaheim or via Telegraph road, Santa Fe Springs, Norwalk, Buena Park, Fullerton thence to Santa Ana. The entire route is free from detours and in splendid shape. There has been a small detour around bridge construction work just north of Fullerton but in the last few days motorists have been allowed to use the bridge which is almost completed. From Santa Ana south via Irvine, Capistrano, Oceanside, Carlsbad and Del Mar—paved to San Diego.

Inland Route to San Diego

Paved from Los Angeles to the northern San Diego county line via Riverside, Perris, Elsinore and Temecula, an optional route to Elsinore is via Corona and Temescal canyon. There are approximately 35 miles of unpaved road in stretches between the county line north of Fallbrook and San Diego. Those stretches are smooth and except during and immediately after rain are easily passable.

Salton Sea Route

In travelling from Los Angeles to Banning, motorists can go by way of Riverside and San Gorgoino pass or via Redlands and Reservoir canyon. Both routes are in splendid shape although it is necessary in wet weather to use chains on the Gorgoino pass. Beaumont to Banning paved, slight detour between Banning and Cabazon, thence road from Palm Springs to Indian Wells; thence pavement south through Indio and along the Salton sea to a point approximately four miles west of Westmoreland. Here immediately after crossing the bridge over the Trifoleum canal swing left and follow dirt road to the junction of the Brawley-Calapatria road, then pavement south through Brawley to Imperial—dirt road from Imperial to El Centro.

Phoenix Routes

There are three main routes connecting Southern California with Phoenix; one by way of San Bernardino, Victorville, Barstow, Needles and Parker; second, by way of Banning, Palm Springs, Mecca and Blythe; third by way of Yuma. On the first two mentioned routes the Colorado river is crossed by ferry at Parker and Blythe. Ferry charge to motorists, $2.50.

Pacific Highway

Motorists have been coming through from Oregon and Washington points to Southern California throughout the winter months. There is some snow on the mountain portion between Redding and the Oregon state line, but this does not interfer with travel as the road offers easy grades, having been improved and widened to such an extent that it is a comparatively easy matter for the authorities to prevent the road becoming blocked with snow. From the Oregon state line through Grants Pass, Roseburg and Salem to Portland, the road with a few exceptions offers hard surfaced boulevard conditions. The Columbia river is also open at present between Portland. The Dalles and most of the highway between the latter city and Pendleton is paved. It is therefore possible to drive from Portland to Spokane by this route at present and unless unusually severe storms occur, the road will be passable from now on.

Lower California

From San Diego to Ensenada—this road is not advisable because of recent storms and the lack of bridges over many washes and small streams.

Redwood Highway—San Francisco to Grant's Pass Via Ukiah, Eureka and Crescent City

The following report has just been received from one of our crews, covering this highway: Ferry from the foot of Market St. to Sausalito. Paved from there through San Rafael, Petaluma, Santa Rosa and Healdsburg to a point just north of Geyserville; thence dirt roads, mostly highway grade, into Hopland, then highway is under construction between Hopland and Largo, and it is advisable for travel to cross the river at Hopland and go north on the river road to Largo where the highway is open. A steam shovel is at work at Largo but does not affect travel. A short distance north of Largo, pavement is encountered and continues to a point eight miles north of Ukiah; then comes good gravel road to Willits, then macadam road for a distance of 6.4 miles, then a fine gravel road to Cummings, then excellent gravel road to a point 121 miles from Ukiah; then the road is very soft and muddy for .2 miles but not bad, then fair to 130; then very muddy for .5 miles, then fair road to 137.3, where pavement is had to Fortuna, equals 147, thence good gravel road to 54.9 where pavement is had to Eureka at present in excellent shape, but small slides may occur during storms in March and April. Chains are advisable at this season. Leaving Eureka go east on Broadway to Arcata road, then north to Bayside over loose gravel road 12.1; then rough dirt road 1.7 miles to Arcata. Then fair gravel to 25.9 where new highway is under construction; this does not affect the present road as it parallels the present road. From 25.9 to 36.4 rough, then fine gravel road to Orick 55.0, where you enter a forest of giant trees—the road through this grove is fair but narrow and turn-outs scarce to 65.3 thence over newly scraped road to Klamath river ferry 78.1. Requa 78.1 through dense forest, narrow road to 88.5 then over good new gravel highway to 98.6, then 5 miles loose gravel to Crescent City, 103.6. 90 miles east over rough gravel then north where a fine grove is entered—giant redwoods to 17.5, good dirt and gravel road but narrow—slow driving on account of many turns and few turn-outs. Road good to Oregon line, then rough 4 miles, many drains in road to 45.1, fair to Waldo 53.8, then fine gravel road to Wilderville 83, then rough to Grant's Pass 93.

The bazaar was in full swing when a young man strolled around to the various booths. He had no intention of purchasing anything. As he passed a tastefully decorated booth, however, he was accosted by a pretty saleswoman, who detained him to ask: "Won't you buy a cigarette holder?"

"No, thank you, I don't smoke," he replied. "Or a penwiper worked by own hands?" she continued. "I don't write," returned the young man. "Then do have a nice box of chocolates," the saleswoman persisted. "I don't eat sweets," said the other. By this time the young woman's patience was exhausted. "Sir," she remarked grimly, "will you buy this box of soap?" He did.

There is nothing new under the sun—not even in love or politics.
